Kinuso Blazes Are Reported Set In Twenty Places

Incendiarism Reported In Forest Fires

Incendiarism was added to the foes being fought by the provincial forestry service on Tuesday when a large fire, south of Kinuso, was reported to headquarters as having been set in 20 places. The ranger in charge reports that crews are out battling the flames, but the natural difficulties of dry weather and hot winds are increased by the incendiarism.

In the Flatbush-Chisholm area, and including Smith and the Big Bend of the Athabasca river, the fire situation is extremely bad, according to reports received at the provincial forestry branch. Weather continues dry and there is little relief in sight from rain.

Wabasca also reports a serious situation, more especially to the south and west of that point. No moisture has fallen and the dry nature of the country and the winds has greatly increased the hazard in the last few days.

Some relief arrived on Tuesday when scattered showers fell to the west of here and in the Winfield, Mayburn and in the Peace River and Grande Prairie areas.

Fire at Buck Mountain got out of hand on Tuesday afternoon, but was brought back under control at 10 p.m.

Honored

CAPTAIN A. R. MEIKLE

ABOARD R.M.S. EMPRESS OF AUSTRALIA, May 17.—The King tonight honored Capt. A. R. Meikle, the man entrusted with bringing safely across the Atlantic this "Royal yacht" conveying Their Majesties to Canada. His Majesty conferred on the veteran skipper the insignia of Companion of the Royal Victorian Order. Several members of the ship's company were presented by the King and Queen with personal gifts bearing the Royal monogram.

Their Majesties Given Tremendous Welcome

By LEON EDEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, May 17—The first reigning British monarch to cross the Atlantic ocean, King George VI., and his Queen, Elizabeth, disembarked today from the liner Empress of Australia, and stepped into the most enthusiastic welcome old French Canada and its population could provide.

For minutes before the Royal couple stepped ashore, at 10:30 a.m., thousands of men, women and children set up a deafening roar that could not be outdone by the crescendo of marine whistles, tolling church bells and even the roar of low-flying airplanes.

Crash after crash of rolling cheers echoed and reechoed across the blue waters of the mighty St. Lawrence as the huge white Empress of Australia swung round in the stream and nosed her way to the pier-head.

The liner hove into sight exactly on schedule. She had anchored down-river with her four-warship escort, and hauled up anchor at 8:15 a.m. Little more than two hours later she pulled along the jammed pier, tossed ashore her lines, lowered her gangplank, all without a hitch.

During the brief manoeuvering of the ship, the King, dressed in the uniform of an admiral, and the Queen, in a pearl grey ensemble, stood on deck and waved in response to the roaring crowd that at times became almost unmanageable.

KING SHAKES HANDS

The King and Queen disappeared from deck. At 10:18 a.m., Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, went aboard. They could not be seen extending the welcome in Their Majesties, who reappeared shortly after, the tall sailor King shaking hands with the ship's officers as he started down the gangway.

Once on the pier, the King and

Sailor King And Consort Make History

In the blue and gold full dress uniform of Admiral-in-Chief of the British navy, King George VI, Britain's Sailor King, and his Royal consort, Queen Elizabeth, landed at historic Wolfe's Cove on Wednesday morning. The event made history, as for the first time in Canada a reigning monarch set foot on Canadian soil. The enthusiastic welcome of Quebec was a happy augury for the Royal Tour which will take Their Majesties from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again, with a short side trip to Washington as the guests of President F. D. Roosevelt and the people of the United States. Crowds which had stayed up all night jammed every available spot along the waterfront and the route of the Royal procession, and it was to the accompaniment of roars of sustained cheering and scenes of unbridled enthusiasm that the King and Queen came to Canada.

PROVINCE WILL INCREASE FUND WEST HIGHWAY

Additional $100,000 To Be Spent By Alberta, Fallow Says

Decision of the provincial government to add $100,000 to its appropriation for Jasper highway construction this year, in spite of the refusal of the Dominion government to match it dollar-for-dollar, was announced Wednesday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works. This will mean a total of $200,000 available for this purpose this year, of which the province is putting up $150,000 and the Dominion $50,000.

Under grants given by the Dominion for highways purposes in this province, $50,000 was set aside for the Jasper highway, to be matched equally by the province.

Mr. Fallow then applied to the Dominion for an additional $200,000 for Jasper highway purposes, to be matched dollar-for-dollar by the province, which have meant $800,000 available for the highway. This application was turned down and the outlook was for $100,000 of which $50,000 was the Dominion grant matched equally by the province.

On Wednesday Mr. Fallow announced that the province would go

COMMISSION REDUCES OIL PIPELINE RATE

Tariff Fixed At 9½ Cents a Barrel—Reduction Of 5½ Cents

CALGARY, May 17.—The McGillivray Royal Commission today handed down its final report on the pipeline phase of its inquiry into Alberta's oil and gas industry which recommends that the transportation rate on oil from Turner Valley to Calgary through Royalite pipelines be 9½ cents a barrel, a reduction of 5½ cents.

The present rate is 15 cents a barrel.

The report stated life of the Turner Valley oil field, 32 miles southwest of Calgary, "may be conservatively estimated to be, at least, 18 years, with an estimated output of 6,000,000 barrels per year."

Mr. Justice A. A. McGillivray of the Alberta Supreme Court, appellate division, commission chairman, and Commissioner Major L. R. Lipsett, marketing expert of Ardley, Alta., in their report to Hon. J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor of Alberta, also recommended:

LOADING RATE

That a rate of 2½ cents a barrel be set for loading oil at the Calgary terminus of the pipeline system into tank cars for shipment. The present rate is five cents a barrel.

That a service, not given now, of loading tank trucks with crude oil from Turner Valley be provided and the rate be 2½ cents a barrel.

BRITON CABINET GIVES HEED TO RUSSIAN IDEAS

Reply Will Be Drafted To Refusal To Join Pact

By F. H. FISHER
British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, May 17. — Today's meeting of the British cabinet to discuss the reply to Soviet Russia's refusal to accept a British proposal to join the "anti-aggression front" is pointed out in official quarters to be a further sign of the urgency with which Britain regards the negotiations.

It is underlined that the decision to draft a reply immediately when a meeting of the foreign affairs committee of the cabinet was called in the House of Commons yesterday, can be taken as a sign that the British government is not delaying in any way the exchanges between Moscow and London, according to a spokesman of the government.

The government is anxious to ensure that Moscow be appraised of the latest British views in time to discuss the contents of the British reply during the meeting of the League of Nations at Geneva on May 22nd, where Soviet, French and British representatives will meet.

Fierce Electric Storm Rages Over This City: Bolts Batter 3 Homes

Terrific electrical storm which thundered over the city Tuesday night left havoc in its wake as three houses were struck by lightning, a section of the cornice ripped off the northwest corner of the McLeod Building, one woman knocked unconscious by the effect of lightning, and street railway service disrupted.

A section of the cornice on the north-west corner of the McLeod building was seni crashing to the sidewalk below when struck by lightning. Debris included pieces of white stone and mortar as large as ordinary brick. The sharp crash startled citizens in the downtown section of the city. A group of amateur radio fans holding a meeting in the radio supply store on the ground floor of the building, when the stone thundered down at the doorway of the store, stated that the debris appeared to be almost incandescent.

FORKED SHAFT

A forked shaft which blasted the sky at 9:48 p.m. set fire to the roof of a house at 10022 103 avenue and at the same time broke a window and shattered plaster off the wall of the house next door—10024 103 avenue, occupied by M. Medson and family.

A third shaft struck a radio

Premier King Offers Welcome To Canada

QUEBEC, May 17.—Following is the text of the address of welcome to Their Majesties spoken by Prime Minister Mackenzie King today at the Dominion government luncheon in Quebec:

May it please Your Majesty:

On behalf of the Canadian people, I respectfully extend to Your Majesty and to Her Majesty the Queen a royal welcome to your Dominion of Canada.

We are deeply conscious of the signal honor of being the first of the overseas' nations of the commonwealth to be visited by the reigning sovereign, and of having the high privilege of welcoming, in person, our King and Queen. We are proud indeed to feel that, in the person of Your Majesty, we have among us, not the symbol, but the living presence of the head of the whole Empire.

Three and a third centuries ago, unknown, unheralded and unwelcomed, small craft crossed the then uncharted seas and sailed up the St. Lawrence to where this morning Your Majesty set foot on Canadian soil. Here, these early adventurers raised the Fleur de Lys of France and planted the cross of Christianity. That day

Denmark Ready For Nazi Offer

BERLIN, May 17.—Denmark is reliably reported to be ready to accept Germany's offer of a non-aggression pact but that Norway, Sweden and Finland would say tactfully that they saw no necessity for entering such agreements.

Blast Kills Two

City To Decorate Buildings June 2

All city-owned houses and buildings along the Route of Royal Progress will be decorated with flags and bunting by the city, setting an example to others along the route, it was stated Wednesday by city commissioners. There are some 30 of these buildings and, according to Mayor John W. Fry, schools on the Royal Route also will be decorated.

German Propaganda May Militate Against Success Royal Visit

LONDON, May 17. — German propaganda in the Canadian middle-west may militate against success of the visit of the King and Queen to that district, according to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

The former Canadian prime minister told a Tory-H meeting yesterday the middle west had a large German community where propaganda could be circulated freely.

"We know that propaganda is controlled from Chicago and that its effect on the younger German settlers is considerable," he said. However, the older Germans valued their liberty in Canada too highly to be influenced by propaganda.

Mr. Bennett described Their Majesties' trip to the Dominion as a "sacrifice," pointing out they would be required to spend long hours on the train and at official functions.

If Britain ever was attacked, Canada would rush to the colors, he predicted.

Sailor Killed

PORTLAND, Eng., May 17. — A sailor was killed and three others gravely injured today by a gun explosion aboard the destroyer Eskimo in port here.

Outstanding Royal Edition

Unique in every way, is the special supplement of The Edmonton Bulletin which is being prepared to mark the visit of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, to Edmonton.

Timed for publication on the day of their arrival in Edmonton, Friday, June 2nd, The Bulletin's Royal Edition, will be distributed along with the regular issue of the newspaper, which will be made up of three sections.

A feature of the edition will be an exclusive full-page photograph of Their Majesties on front cover. The section will also contain unpublished portrait and action shots of the Royal Family purchased by The Bulletin for this particular issue.

Special writers will contribute colorful news stories covering the Royal Party's tour of Canada prior to arrival in Edmonton, many of which will be accompanied by pictures.

An outstanding "highlight" of this Edition will be the many messages of welcome to the Royal couple from the manufacturers of "Made-in-Alberta" products.

Due to the historic nature of the occasion, The Bulletin anticipates an extra heavy demand for this special issue, which will be treasured for years to come, and suggests that residents of Central and Northern Alberta, who are not regular readers of this newspaper, should arrange to reserve their copies well in advance. Address your order for extra copies to The Edmonton Bulletin, Circulation Department, Jasper Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta.

WHITE PAPER OUTLINES PLAN FOR PALESTINE

LONDON, May 17.—The government today issued a white paper outlining a plan for the establishment "within 10 years of an independent Palestine state."

Under the plan 75,000 Jewish immigrants would be admitted to Palestine during the next five years. After this period no further Jewish immigration would be allowed unless the Arabs of Palestine agreed.

The plan would grant power to the British high commissioner in Palestine to "Prohibit and regulate transfer of land."

LONDON, May 17.—Spokesmen for the Jewish agency for Palestine announced today they would fight the British plan for the Holy Land's future which the government issued tonight.

Jewish leaders, it was said, will refuse to co-operate with the plan.

Newspapers Favored For Advertising By Department Stores

NEW YORK, May 17.—Samuel W. Rayburn, chairman of the board of the Associated Dr. Goods Corporation, believes department stores benefit more from advertising in newspapers and magazines than by use of other mediums. In an address Tuesday night he said department store advertising would continue to go to newspapers because of "greater visibility and longer life."

ALBERTA'S OIL DELEGATION TO SAIL ON FRIDAY

LONDON, May 17.—A delegation of Alberta oil men today completed discussions with British authorities and prepared to sail for home Friday.

The delegates refused to disclose the results of the conferences but a brief communique from Canada House said the delegation "was well received and its work may be regarded as having attended every success due to the general recognition of the potential importance to the empire as well as to Canada of Canada's oil resources."

MAN INJURED IN FALL FROM ROOF OF HOUSE

Gerald Rice, 46, 11514 97 street, of the Norwood Sheet Metal Works, was injured at 10 a.m. Wednesday when he fell from the roof of a two-storey West End house on which he was repairing the eaves-trough.

A workman with him at the time said a ladder slipped and Mr. Rice fell seven or eight feet to the roof of the front verandah, rolled to the edge of the verandah roof, and dropped another 10 feet to a concrete sidewalk.

Rushed to the Royal Alexandra hospital in a car driven by his fellow workman, he was found to be suffering an injured left arm and bruises.

Full extent of his injuries was to be determined by X-ray examination.

Atlantic Flier Is Unreported On Wednesday

NEW YORK, May 17.—Carl Backman, Swedish aviator attempting a transatlantic flight from Newfoundland to Stockholm, Sweden, was unreported at an early hour today.

He carried no wireless, however, so reports of his progress would depend on hi amonoplane's being seen by a liner at sea or from some land point along his route.

Tremendous Welcome Given Royal Pair Landing At Quebec

Queen took their places on richly decorated dais, where they received and formally welcomed Quebec Councillors, members of the Dominion cabinet, provincial and civic leaders.

INSPECTED GUARD

Letving the Queen on the dais surrounded by the cabinet ministers, the King inspected the guard of honor formed by the Royal 22nd Regiment. His Majesty walked slowly through the rows of the French-Canadian troops, smartly attired in busbies and scarlet tunics.

Then the King returned to the dais, and at the same time the specially-built car slipped out from the shed. Their Majesties' departure was a signal for another burst of spontaneous cheering, that grew in volume and intensity as the parade passed by.

The car, accompanied by an impressive escort, moved slowly through the narrow avenues that led to the plains of Abraham and "upper town," high on the great cliffs over-looking the St. Lawrence River. Through crowded streets the short procession moved and storm after storm of cheering heralded their progress.

Finally at 11:10 a.m. the car reached the provincial Legislative buildings where Their Majesties were greeted officially by Premier Maurice Duplessis and Lieutenant-governor E. L. Patenaude. To the Premier's welcome in French, the King handed his reply, also in French.

CARDINAL RECEIVED

The King also received Cardinal Villeneuve, Canada's only prince of the Roman Catholic church. The ceremony lasted only 12 minutes and Their Majesties left the building the accompaniment of more cheering from crowds who covered the spacious lawns, climbed trees and otherwise occupied every point from which the Royal entourage could be seen.

Never before in its long and colorful history had the old province of Quebec had an opportunity to greet a reigning monarch, and the enthusiasm and elan of the Quebecois knew no bounds. Every smile and gesture of the Queen and every salute of the smiling-eyed King was the signal for another burst of unrestrained cheering. Quebec had taken the King and Queen to its heart unreservedly. Truly, Their Majesties "came, and saw and conquered."

Another short, triumphal drive through more streets, jam-packed with cheering crowds, and the Royal car sped to the citadel, where Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, Girl Guides and members of other juvenile organizations formed a cordon along the winding stone road. In bright sunshine, the King and Queen passed through a living avenue of loyal and devoted subjects, as colorful a picture as the New World has ever seen.

The Royal procession reached the Citadel, surrounded by rambling fortress walls atop the city's highest point, at 11:45 a.m. There the Royal couple, 45 minutes ahead of their scheduled time, rested until 1 p.m., when they left again for a luncheon given by the Dominion government at the Chateau Frontenac. And all the time the cheering continued as the liaison officers, the Premier to the lowest in the province vieing with each other to show their love and loyalty.

At the historic legislative buildings the scene was impressive.

Thousands of persons thronged the spacious lawns of the legislature park, cheering as the royal couple entered the building, and retained their positions to await the next glimpse of the noted visitors.

Fifteen minutes later the King and Queen emerged from the private reception room which had been converted from the Premier's private dining room, and walked into the elaborately-decorated legislative council chamber, the home of Canada's oldest parliamentary institution.

White-helmeted provincial police constables held back the crowd and permitted entrance to the building only those dignitaries notables to be presented after the welcoming ceremony. Those to be presented were allowed to enter a side door and then were escorted by police to the council chamber.

Welcoming the royal visitors, Premier Duplessis said he was "happy and proud" to express "the sentiments of joy, respect, loyalty and affection of the entire province of Quebec and, in particular, of Canadians of French descent."

"Always has our province been faithful to the crown of Britain; equally has it been faithful to traditions inherited from our forefathers. It is the pact of confederation of 1867, and to that mission which British statesmen in 1791 confided to it—to remain altogether French." This pact we cherish in our hearts and never shall we cease to consider the throne as the bulwark of our democratic institutions and of our constitutional liberties."

Mr. Duplessis extended Quebec's good wishes that Their Majesties' visit "be enjoyable everywhere and in everything."

Mr. Duplessis spoke in French and his Majesty replied in that language. The King paid tribute to the loyalty of the French-Canadian people and to the spirit of tolerance in which the two great Canadian races live.

His Majesty said the Queen and he were deeply touched by the reception in Quebec. The King said his father, the late King George V, entertained a deep love for the Quebec people, and the Queen Mother Mary is similarly devoted.

"The spirit of tolerance in which the two great races dwell side by side in this province is an example to the entire world," his Majesty said. "This harmony augurs well for the future of Canada."

TWIN THRONES

Their Majesties occupied twin thrones on a red-covered dais during the brief ceremony. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Dominion government ministers who had greeted the King and Queen on their arrival stood at the right of the dais, while Premier Duplessis was in front of it.

A few feet away, in a front row of the gathering, were Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve of Quebec, and Mgr. Paul Bernier, chancellor of Quebec archbishopric.

Actual Landing Is Historic Event

The actual landing on Canadian soil was solemn and historic.

From the King's wharf, a mile and a half away, to the sweeping bend in the majestic St. Lawrence river at Wolfe's Cove, thousands of Quebecois bestirred themselves to cheer before dawn to thunder an overwhelming greeting to their King and Queen.

In the gray morning light, under clear, promising skies, the little cove presented a scene of orderly activity. Police officials were at their posts at 6 a.m. Shortly afterward communications officials arrived and took up places in the police-box sited alongside which the Empress of Australia docks.

SHARP BRILLIANCE

In the early morning light the gay bunting and multi-colored decorating stood out with sharp brilliance—bright reds, deep blues and rich gold—turning the bare, vast shed into a warm and hospitable place.

Not far from Wolfe's Cove is the ever-remembered spot in Canadian history where on 4 September, only 180 years ago General Wolfe landed his men—regiments of Otway, Fraziers, Highlanders, Royal Marines of Royal Americans—and massed them after a perilous climb up the heights on the Plains of Abraham where they won their battle against the French almost before it began.

The King set foot thus virtually at the spot where history decreed that New France should one day expand into a great dominion under his rule.

Morning mists lay over the distant Laurentides in this peaceful and truly Canadian scene which greeted the eye of Their Majesties on arrival. The heights Wolfe's men scaled, in history says were rugged and dangerous, have been smoothed by time and seem comparatively easy to scale today. Far off to the west the graceful church spire rose etched against the sky. In the distance the rolling lawn of Spencerwood, residence of Quebec's Lieutenant-Governor, and the ancient house itself, could be discerned.

THOUSANDS WAIT

On the heights, 350 feet above the St. Lawrence, which has earned for Quebec the name of the "Gibraltar of America," crowds were assembled along famous Dufferin Terrace. And thousands stood along the Plains of Abraham, once a gory battlefield, but today a peaceful park.

Sharp at 6:30 a.m. a busload of 42 hand-picked mounted police, resplendent in their uniforms, drew up at the west end of the shed where the liner docks, and for the next half-hour went smartly through their paces, were inspected and received final instructions.

Among the first arrivals in the vicinity of the shed, seeking a point of vantage from which to view the ceremonies, was a French-Canadian family from the northern village of Jonquires, Que., near Chicoutimi. Father, mother and children had modestly all night to reach Quebec in time for the ceremonies.

Sharp at 7 a.m., E.D.T., all general automobile traffic to and from the wharf was cut off. Thereafter, only cars carrying special authorization from police were allowed along the three-mile stretch from upper Quebec to the cove.

CALL TO PRAYER

Tolling church bells, calling the faithful to morning prayer, came over the placid St. Lawrence. Nearer the cacaphonous roar of motorcycles, speeding from point to point, mingled with the occasional blast from some steamship sailing slowly by.

Ships in the harbor, to the east of Wolfe's Cove, were decked out from stem to stern.

Most of Quebec's 150,000 population and her thousands of visitors had risen early to go to the cove.

VELVET CARPET

A green velvet carpet was laid on the stand where government leaders assembled to greet their Majesties. Scarlet runners were laid from the point where the gangplank lowers.

Potted palms were placed about the stand, and dydrangeas, roses and other flowers. In the centre, against a background of cloth of gold, were placed the twin thrones. To the right of the King's throne and left of the Queen's, small tables were provided with scarlet.

High on the summit overlooking Wolfe's Cove, thousands could be seen jammed along Grey Terrace, beyond which lies Battlefield Park. Some had been standing there since 4 a.m.

The whole area at the east end of the shed was a military armed camp. More than 100 Frontiersmen in their blue and khaki uniforms paraded, taking up positions on either side of the stretch of roadway leading from the wharf to Champlain Street, at the foot of the cliffside, and which is where the Royal procession begins.

The general movement of sightseers started to waterfront for the arrival of the Empress was visible in all sections of the city. Crowds streamed from street-meeting business as residents and visitors grabbed hasty bites before rushing off to witness the arrival.

Long before Their Majesties' ship was in sight crippled war veterans were wheeled to positions for the Cross of Sacrifice opposite the provincial legislative buildings.

At the huge stone armories other sightseers lined up before marching off for their duties in the day's ceremonies.

Excitement in the city, growing for days, reached a crescendo when the Royal Visit had gone forward, was at fever pitch.

At 6:30 a.m. EDT the liner Empress of Australia hove into sight of the thousands lined along the terrace that skirts the old ex-battlements.

MOTORCYCLE ESCORT

At 9 a.m. the two Royal cars, accompanied by full motorcycle escort and flanked by the 22nd, the procession drove into the shed and came to a halt just near the east exit.

There was no wind and the flag atop the heights of the Plains of Abraham hung limp at the mast.

Suddenly the hills of Quebec's numerous churches began a tumultuous welcome as from some sections of the city and her escorts could be seen rounding the Island of Orleans.

The drone of airplanes overhead, the ringing of the bells, the screeching of marine whistles, the shouts of persons thronging every roof, balcony and any other spot habitable, made a deafening roar.

At 9:20 a.m., E.D.T., the Empress was directly opposite the centre of the city. Although she was but just a little more than a mile from Wolfe's Cove.

EXCITEMENT INCREASED

Excitement increased at the Cove as the crowds strained to catch first glance of the Royal armada.

By now, most of the official welcoming guard had gathered, the King in small groups and pacing the fenced-off area. Privy Councillors in full uniforms added a brilliant touch to the colorful picture.

GUARD OF HONOR

The Royal 22nd Canadian Regiment, attired in vivid scarlet coats and busbies, arrived and lined up at the end of the wharf.

Everyone was at his post as the destroyer escort pulled into full view of the pier, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King arrived on the dock ready to be the first aboard.

The first line was thrown from the ship to the pier at 9:35 a.m. and then as Their Majesties appeared on deck and smilingly responded by waving to the cheers and shouts from the crowd, Quebec got its first glimpse of their beloved rulers. The crowd roared a welcome and the King and Queen continued to wave hands as the liner snuggled into her berth and the rest of the lines were thrown to the pier.

Commander A. R. Meikle could be seen on the bridge, remaining at the post to give the last order that made fast his royal-chartered ship, and brought to a close a momentous voyage.

CHILDREN BREAK THROUGH

Another wild cheer arose as the King and Queen made their way to the rail, and French-Canadian children ignored the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and broke through their cordon, keeping them back. Through police legs and between the harried constables, the children pushed their way and were only halted at the last police barrier which separated the oncoming crowd of children from the dock.

The crowds, almost as a human tide, pushed closer and closer until they were jammed tight against the barrier separating the cabinet ministers, headed by Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of Justice.

Doors of the lower deck were opened and at 10:15 the gangplank was raised. A few minutes later the King and Queen came down the gangplank, and another page in the colorful history of Quebec was written. Canada's King and Queen were on home soil.

The flag can be flown officially, day and night, over only one building in the United States—the national Capitol in Washington.

Fierce Storm

aerial at the home of Mrs. Alles R. Jones, 8619 109 avenue, running down the wire into the living room. Other damage was slight.

Mrs. Jones' son Victor was walking into the living room in front of his mother, when a ball of fire seemed to strike into the corner, a daughter, Alice, told a Bulletin reporter Wednesday.

BALL OF FIRE

"The ball of fire flew across the room and sparks flew from it," Alice said. "It knocked Victor into the bedroom and mother into the kitchen. They were not knocked unconscious."

Alice said she was sitting in the kitchen. She felt something strike her which made her numb all down the side of her head and body. When she tried to pick up her mother her own leg was numb and she could hardly move.

A man down the street heard the blast. He ran up and pulled the red hot wires off the roof. Firemen arrived and cut off all electrical switches in the house. There are two scorched spots on the living room wall.

SMOKE RISING

After his home had been struck, M. Medson looked out the broken window and saw smoke rising from the Jones' home. He telephoned immediately phoned the fire department. Rigs from No. 2 hall, led by Acting Chief James Macgregor extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

Police said that the woman who fell down when the lightning struck was taken into Medson's house, but quickly recovered. She refused to give her name. It is possible she fainted with fright, police stated.

Starting early in the evening, the storm raged for a period of four hours, wearing itself out shortly before midnight. A total of .33 inches of rain was deposited over the city and surrounding district.

HUB OF STORM

Edmonton was the hub of the storm, rain varying from light sprinkles to heavy showers falling within a radius of 40 miles of the city, according to the Alberta Motor association's road report. Roads were virtually unaffected by the downfall, and motorists' traffic arteries leading out of the city being reported as "good".

Local gardens and fields took on a new greenness as parched soil drank up the moisture.

Storm followed a day during which the mercury rose to a high reading of 74 above in the afternoon. Showers brought cooler temperatures, the local register sinking to an overnight low of 49 above early Wednesday. Cooler weather is forecast along with a possibility of more showers.

Heavy rain fell over most of the near northern district during the night. Heaviest downpour was reported at Beaverlodge with a total precipitation of .30 inches. Grande Prairie and Fairview reported .16 inches each. Weather was clearing there Wednesday morning.

TRAMS STOPPED

All street cars from Norwood boulevard to North Edmonton, were stopped for more than an hour when lightning burned out the feeder cable at the power sub-station at the car barns.

Motors on four street cars in various parts of the city were damaged, but the cars were able to get in the barns travelling on the motors that were not touched. Each tram is equipped with four motors.

Transformers and fuses were blown in many parts of the city but there were no serious cut-offs of electric power, according to Wallis Barnhouse, electric light department superintendent. One of the longest cut-offs was suffered by a radio broadcasting station.

There was no trouble at the city power plant, it was stated by Supt. G. R. Watson.

STORE STRUCK

The C. H. Woodward Ltd. department store was also reported to have been struck by lightning but no damage was believed to have been done.

Constable Albert Woodward on duty at 101 street and Jasper Avenue when the storm struck at its height stated that several of the flashes which struck the central portion of the city made the sidewalk tremble where he was standing.

Slight hail was reported in scattered districts.

A machine shed on the farm of M. J. Bernhardt, west of Blackfalds burned to the ground when struck by lightening Tuesday evening according to word received here. A violent electrical storm was reported in the district.

Townsend Plan In Tennessee Is Badly Defeated

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 17.—The Florida Senate last night overwhelmingly defeated a state $200-a-month Townsend old age pension plan. Vote was 28 to 8. The bill would have levied a two per cent transactions tax on every type of business to pay as nearly $250 a month to all persons over 60 years of age as the tax would produce.

province showers have occurred, giving relief but not extinguishing the fire.

Fires Still Menace Crown Timber Lands

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, May 17.—Light rains late Tuesday helped extinguish most smaller fires in this vicinity, but the forestry department still has 50 men on the Nordegg cabin, 40 miles northwest of here, where a bad fire is spreading in young growth and endangering valuable crown timber.

Firefighters have an eight-mile trek through bush and undergrowth carrying supplies on their backs. There are no settlers near this fire.

LUMBER MOVED

Fire 30 miles southwest on Prairie Creek is well under control. It was feared Tuesday that the Jones Harris lumber mill was in danger. C. D. Rands, town lumber dealer, who had 100,000 feet of lumber piled at the mill, had engaged a 24-hour crew of men to bring lumber into town. Light rain fell at that point.

Two men have been patrolling the country 15 miles north in the vicinity of Martin's mill, which was burned two weeks ago, to watch muskeg and spruce root fires.

Fire in the crown timber west of Clearwater ranger cabin, over 50 miles southwest near Brule Lake, was reported by a ranger on Monday, but no further report has been received, travelling is so difficult in miles of heavy bush where there is nothing but pack trails that the ranger wouldn't come out to report unless he needed help, so local officials think this fire must be under control.

Fires at Pingley and Robinson were reported extinguished late Tuesday night.

No fires have been started by lightning this season. Forestry officials report the ban on fire permits will continue until there is a long wet spell.

DRIVER, HORSE KILLED INSTANTLY AS BOLT STRIKES

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

TROCHU, Alta., May 17.—Verdun Boisjoli, 22, second son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Boisjoli, died instantly when struck by lightning at the farm home of his parents four miles west of Trochu Tuesday night about 7.30 p.m.

He had just come in from the field owing to an electrical storm and light rain and was putting the horses in the barn. While unharnessing a sweated horse lightning struck the horse killing both young Boisjoli and the horse instantly.

Dr. T. P. McGowan found life entirely extinct on arrival. Two brothers, Arthur and Wilfred were in the barn at the time but both escaped injury although Wilfred was knocked unconscious for a short time. Boisjoli had been married just over a year. Funeral services will be held from the St. Anne's Roman Catholic church here at four Thursday afternoon.

Highway Work

ahead independently with the additional $100,000.

"If conditions are more favorable later on, we may be able to increase this amount," said Mr. Fallow.

"We still feel that Ottawa is continuing its discrimination against Alberta in the matter of road building and we regard the building of this road so important that we are going right ahead."

Mr. Fallow stated that most of the work to be done was gravelling, ditching and preparation for surfacing.

The heaviest construction will be between the city and Edson and will be lighter west of that point. In a few sections the old C.N.R. grade is being used and Mr. Fallow states that with the amount available it is hoped to make at least a good gravel highway through that part.

It is hoped to press work forward with sufficient rapidity that the province will derive much benefit from the tourist traffic to Jasper this season.

Alberta To Aid Monkman Pass

Some work will be done of the Monkman Pass highway by the Alberta government during the current summer, according to Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works. Mr. Fallow said 15 and 20 miles of this highway lie within Alberta's borders.

The statement was made when asked to comment on a report that the Dominion and British Columbia governments are being asked to co-operate in building this road.

"Alberta's position on this matter is clear," he said. "We will do necessary work when there are signs of activity across the interprovincial border. In fact, we are going to do some work this summer in any case."

He pointed out that the greater portion of the highway is in British Columbia and the small amount in Alberta would be of little benefit to the latter without the B.C. side being built.

Modern "Dr. Jekyll And Mr. Hyde" Says He Was Edmontonian

PICTON, Ont., May 17—Story of modern "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" was unfolded in police court here today when Oscar St. Pierre, 60-year-old farmer, pleaded guilty to robbing a bank, attempting to break and enter another and entering and robbing a pool room. St. Pierre was remanded to May 31 for sentence.

St. Pierre said the robberies were motivated by a desire for revenge because a United States bank had been responsible for the financial ruin of his father. He said he had been a former preacher in Edmonton.

BURROWED WALL

St. Pierre said he burrowed through the wall of the Wellington village branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in March, 1935, and stole $1,-100 in silver. Vault bricks were replaced and the robbery was not discovered until two weeks afterwards when an audit was made.

"I have been deeply injured with a spirit of revenge," St. Pierre said, in telling of how his father lost $2,600—his life savings—through failure of a bank in 1930. "After my father died I decided to get even."

St. Pierre said he kept the robbery of the bank a secret for a year, when he told Cecil Bovay gradually about the affair. Bovay bled me for the next two years and he got money from me as fast as I paid it back. At last I could stand it no longer, I told Bovay and his wife they could blackmail me no longer."

READS BIBLE

Magistrate J. Shea asked St. Pierre if he read much.

"Yes," he replied. "I read the Bible every day and detective magazines."

"This is a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde case," Crown Attorney Waimsley said. "Several witnesses have testified to the unblemished character and fine reputation this man had in his community."

Mayor Telford Pledges Jobless They'll Get Work

VANCOUVER, May 17. — Two hundred unemployed men, in their first demonstration of the year, marched from the downtown area to the city hall today and drew from Mayor Lyle Telford a promise of aid in obtaining a works program from the British Columbia government.

"With a view to avoiding, if possible, a repetition of last year's demonstrations," the unemployed by petition asked the mayor to "convene a meeting of prominent citizens" to advance the appeal.

It was the first demonstration since unemployed occupied the Vancouver Art Gallery and the post office last year.

Roosevelt Halts Building Dirigible

WASHINGTON, May 17—President Roosevelt said today that because of safety considerations he had halted indefinitely United States navy plans to build the $3,-000,000 dirigible congress authorized in last year's $1,000,000 expansion act. Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that a bidder on the 325-foot airship the navy proposed to construct asserted a larger craft would be safer.

Premier King Offers Welcome To Canada

was the birthday of Canada. Since then, these heights have witnessed other scenes alike heroic and historic.

This afternoon Your Majesty will view the plains where one and three-quarter centuries ago the soil of old France in the new world was won for the British crown. The transition gave a firm foundation to the British dominions beyond the seas. Your Majesty will also see the memorial which, in a single epitaph, commemorates the virtues of the gallant leaders of the two great races then in conflict—a symbol of the highest chivalry, but, even more, of national unity.

Here, in 1864, after a preliminary conference at Charlottetown, the Fathers of Confederation drafted the resolutions which were the basis of the British North America Act. By this act, the provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, were federally united under the crown into one dominion. On July 1, 1867, with a constitution similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom, the British colonies thus united became the Dominion of Canada.

To aid and advise in the government of the Dominion, the new constitution made provision for a council to be styled the Queen's Privy Council for Canada.

ALL PRIVY COUNCIL

Today, to all the Privy Councillors of Canada have been invited to meet Your Majesty, including members of both present and past administrations.

It is the first occasion since Confederation, apart from meetings of the first cabinet, on which all the members of the King's Privy Council for Canada have been brought together. It is the first time in the history of Canada that the ministers of the Crown, and, indeed, all members of Your Majesty's Privy Council, have been assembled in the presence of their King.

Today, as never before the throne has become the centre of our national life.

Under the shadow of the Great Rock of Quebec there has passed, in the course of years, a continuous stream of men and women, seeking and finding new homes and new opportunities in this favored land.

ADVENTURE PATH

We rejoice in the thought that, for a time, our King and Queen will follow the path of those adventurers and pioneers. Your Majesties will discover not only —as they did—forests, prairies, and mountains but thriving villages, towns and cities, all eager to extend their welcome.

We hope there may be opportunity as well for Your Majesties to see and to enjoy something of the natural beauty of Canada's many rivers and lakes, its vast spaces, its clear skies and golden sunshine, its national parks, its quiet countryside and its peaceful homes.

We are not unmindful of the sacrifices involved in your long and arduous journeys over land and sea, and in parting for the time being with your children—those cherished children of the Empire, the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose. May the sincerity and warmth of our welcome be some compensation to you during this temporary separation.

HOLD TO MEMORY

Your Majesties will find other children in this land longing to press around you, children who in turn will hand on to a future generation the memory of a great moment in their lives. Here, too, you will be in the heart of a family which is your own; a family of men and women of varied stock and race and thought, who, in free association with other members of the commonwealth, but equally in their own way, are working out their national destiny.

We would have Your Majesties feel that, in coming from the old land to the new, you have but left one home to come to another; that we are all of one household. Free institutions and democratic ideals are as dear to the hearts of your people in Canada as to the peoples in any other part of the Empire. We regard their preservation and perpetuation as the common concern of all.

GET WARM WELCOME

May I, in conclusion, be permitted to say that the warmth of the welcome Your Majesties will everywhere receive is bound up in a very special way with the admiration that all Canadians feel for the qualities of heart and character which you possess—for what you are in yourselves. In your daily lives we see exemplified the things we value most—faith in God, concern for human well-being, consecration to the public service, devotion to the simple joys of home and family life.

Greater than our sense of the splendor of your state is our affection for two young people who bear, in so high a spirit, a responsibility unparalleled in the world.

Monarch Deeply Moved By Canadian Welcome

QUEBEC, May 17.—Here is the text of the King's reply to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's address of welcome today at the Dominion government luncheon here.

Mr. Prime Minister:

I am deeply moved by your words of welcome to the Queen and myself on behalf of the Canadian people.

I recognize that this moment is historic. It is the first time that a British king has crossed the Atlantic. I stand today on the soil of North America. Here, in the past two centuries, through loss and through gain, the British Commonwealth of Nations has been largely moulded into its present form.

This is also the first visit of the sovereign to one of his overseas dominions. It is fitting that it should be to the senior dominion of the crown. I am particularly pleased that, on the day of my arrival in Canada, I should have the pleasure of meeting not only the ministers, but all the members of my privy council for Canada.

You, in Canada, have already fulfilled part of the biblical promise and obtained dominion from sea to sea. You are now engaged in fulfilling the latter part of that promise in consolidating government from the river to the ends of the earth, from the St. Lawrence to the Arctic snows.

The Queen and I are looking forward, with anticipation too great for expression, to seeing all we possibly can of this vast country. Particularly do we welcome the opportunity of greeting the men and women who are its strength and stay, and of seeing something of the younger generation so soon to become the guardians of its future.

School Teachers Are Victorious In Their Strike

MILDEN, Sask., May 17—Teachers of Milden school district emerged victorious Tuesday in their strike for $400 back wages. The four teachers and 80 students are expected to return to class rooms.

The Saskatchewan government grant received yesterday was sufficient to give each teacher $200 and the town council will advance the remaining $200.

The teachers began the strike Monday.

DAILY EXPRESS LAUDS CANADA AS LAND OF PLENTY

LONDON, May 17—Arrival of the King and Queen in Canada today was used by the Daily Express (independent) as an occasion to praise the Dominion as a "land of plenty, happiness and wealth."

The editorial observed:

"Every boy born in Canada is like a soldier of Napoleon. He has the business equivalent of a field marshall's baton, which all Napoleon's soldiers were said to carry in their knapsacks.

"Canada has no class system in education, no Eton and Winchester. It has no oligarchy in politics, and there are no ecclesiastics who usurp the possibilities of government."

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative):

"When the King lands at Wolfe's Cove and drives to Quebec to receive the loyal address from the provincial premier in the French language, he will be touched with the origins of the destiny which has so curiously linked the French and English peoples in common nationhood.

"It will be for the King and Queen an unforgettable episode—and it should be their abundant reward to know that they will be giving satisfaction not less than that which they enjoy."

Albertan

15 of that year Albertan Publishers Limited took control of the various properties of The Albertan Publishing Company Limited.

The agreement provided that the total purchase price of $600,000.00 would be paid within fifteen months. At the expiration of that time, which came on May 15, 1937, about one-sixth of the total purchase price had been paid.

TIME EXTENDED

By mutual consent of the two companies the agreement was extended up to the present time, but in a letter to shareholders, which accompanied a notice of the annual meeting called for Tuesday, shareholders were told by the board that the credit of the company had been used up and that the company was faced with several alternatives, one of which was a cancellation of the 1938 agreement.

At the meeting a resolution, as follows, was carried: "That in the opinion of this meeting the directors of Albertan Publishers, Ltd. should take immediate steps to settle the claim of Albertan Publishing Company, Limited, by transferring and quit-claiming to the latter the aforesaid business and assets in consideration of the cancellation of the aforesaid agreement and the release of Albertan Publishers, Limited, from all liabilities thereunder."

UNDERTOOK PURCHASE

When Albertan Publishers, Limited, undertook the purchase three years ago, the understanding was that money for purchase and operation of the properties would be raised by sale of shares to the public. That followed the election of August, 1935, when the Social Credit party was elected to power in Alberta and found itself in control of the legislature, but with very little support from any of the daily newspapers in the province.

Only a small portion of the issue of shares offered to the public was taken up, resulting in the failure by the buying company to complete the agreement within the specified time.

Extension of that time, with the consent of the vendor company, did not result in any additional capital being raised and with losses shown in the balance sheet in 1937 and 1938, Albertan Publishers Limited found itself in the dual position of being in default on the purchase and unable to finance the continued operation of the company.

Out of the money raised from the sale of shares, Albertan Publishers Limited retained a working capital of $50,000, and the balance sheet presented to shareholders this morning showed an impairment of capital of $56,992.65.

In Tuesday's meeting, discussion was brief and the resolution was carried with only one dissenting vote.

Directors of 1938 were re-elected and A. L. Stevens was reappointed auditor of the company.

Uniform Native Trout Constitute Individual Portion at Royal Meal

QUEBEC, May 17.—Chef Louis Baltera took no chances about the trout to be served to Their Majesties at the provincial government's dinner this evening.

When it was decided to include rainbow trout in the Royal menu Quebec's northern lakes and streams were coated with the ice of a lingering winter. Some still are coated, and so Louis ordered a supply of carefully-bred trout from New York.

Meanwhile the government decided that man could conquer lingering winter. Squads were sent to northern waters. They smashed through three feet of ice and fished for trout for the Royal meal. Result: Chef Louis Baltera's refrigerators were overflowing today with native trout and a vast supply from across the border.

UNIFORM FISH

Louis says the imported trout will be sold. Trout figured prominently, however, in menus served newspapermen yesterday. And he has all the trout he wants from native waters in order to select uniform five-ounce fish which will constitute individual portion at the dinner.

"I wasn't going to take a chance," said Louis with a shrug. "I remembered the great Vatel, chef to one of the Kings of France—you do not remember the story? The fish didn't come and the King wanted fish, and Vatel committed suicide, and it was tragic because even as he was dying the fish arrived at the kitchen door.

"I didn't feel like doing that—so I ordered plenty. No, I took no chance."

Rare Vintages From Wine Cellars

QUEBEC, May 17.—Rare vintages, from the cellars of the Quebec Liquor Commission, will be served the King and Queen when they are guests of the federal government at luncheon today and of the provincial government at a gala dinner this evening.

At luncheon Amontillado sherry, Chateau 1923 and Veuve Cliquot 1928 will be served. It will be a light lunch, the first meal Their Majesties will have on Canadian soil.

A lengthier list of wines figures at the elaborate dinner being served them that evening. Starting with Amontillado sherry again, there will follow Chevalier Montrachet, with the brook trout, Hospice de Beaune, with the crown of baby lamb, Chateau Haut Brion with the breasts of snowbirds and salad, and three different brands of champagne. A great fin champagne, Napoleon brandy, will round out the meal.

Fresh Fruit For Royal Basket

QUEBEC, May 17.—Fruit for Their Majesties figuring in menus has arrived in Quebec from England, Canadian points and the United States.

From England have come hothouse grown fruits, including luscious cherries and large muscat grapes. With these will be placed in the Royal fruit basket apples from Georgian Bay, the well-known Canadian Spy.

Louisiana strawberries and California cherries will complete the list of fruits available to the King and Queen here.

British Newsman Shot From Ambush On Tel Avia Road

JERUSALEM, May 17.—Michael Clark, 27, a British newspaperman, was killed Tuesday by assailants who fired on him from ambush in orange grove on Rehovoth-Tel Avia road. Employed by the London Sunday Chronicle, Clark was a friend of Cham Weizmann, president of the world Zionist organization, and was his guest while in Palestine.

Greece Calls Men

ATHENS, Greece, May 17—Greece today called up 14 classes of army reservists for a training period of two months.

YOUNG GIRL SETS RECORD FOR GLIDERS

LETHBRIDGE, May 17—What may have established a new Canadian record for soaring, an eight-mile flight by Miss Evelyn Fletcher, member of the Lethbridge Glider club, is being written into club records.

The young lady, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Fletcher, of this city, and sister of Flying Officer Andrew Fletcher, of the Royal Air Force, made the long distance flight in a sailplane of the club Sunday afternoon.

An automobile towed the craft to spring it into the air, where an up-draft lifted it to 2,000 feet. The pilot lost altitude slowly and after 45 minutes in the air, landed her motorless plane in a farmer's field east of the city. Instruments were sent to Ottawa to ascertain if a new Canadian record was made.

GRITS TO NAME CANDIDATE FOR VEGREVILLE SEAT

VEGREVILLE, May 17. — Arrangements have been completed by the Provincial Liberal Association of Vegreville constituency for the holding of a Liberal nominating convention to be held in Vegreville on Monday, May 22, at 1 p.m. Primaries will be held on Friday, May 19.

While the primary meetings and the convention are to be conducted under the rules governing the Provincial Liberal Association, a most cordial invitation has been extended to all who are opposed to the present provincial government, so that a candidate acceptable to all may be selected at the convention.

Dr. John Yak who has been in practice in Vegreville for many years, has consented to go to the convention as the Liberal candidate but other candidates may be nominated.

E. L. Gray, M.L.A., Alberta Liberal leader; J. H. Tremblay, M.L.A. for Grouard; Dr. A. E. Archer, Federal Liberal nominee for the Vegreville riding, and Dr. Yak will be among the speakers at the convention.

Winnipeg Mayor Refuses To Wear 'Topper': Toronto Mayor Buys Him One

TORONTO, May 17. — Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto holds that the mayor of any Canadian city should wear a silk hat to greet the King and Queen during their Canadian tour—and the conviction is costing him money.

Two top hats arrived at Mayor Day's office Tuesday. One was for him, the other for Mayor John Queen of Winnipeg. Mayor Day explained that Aldermen Coulle and Blumberg of Winnipeg city council, visited there last week and said that Mayor Queen "did not intend to dress up or wear a silk hat to greet Their Majesties."

"So I bought him this one," the mayor said, "with the idea that when he sees it he'll get that irresistible urge we all have to dress up."

Moscow Doesn't Expect War

Russia has not yet joined the anti-aggression line-up, and London reported on Monday that Moscow had declined to join on the terms suggested by Britain—whatever these may have been exactly.

Russia is in the fortunate position that the guarantees given to Poland and Rumania are also guarantees of its security against attack by the aggressors. Poland and Rumania screen its western front, and Herr Hitler's long-planned invasion of the Ukraine could only be launched by an attack upon one country or the other. With its territory already safeguarded in this way, Russia is in position to make terms for adhering to the pact. Nor, considering the poker methods by which European countries negotiate their relationships, is it to be blamed for framing terms to suit its own interests—both in Europe and the Orient. Knight errantry has gone out of fashion in international affairs.

What cannot be doubted is that should the aggressors launch war against either of the intervening states and seem likely to get the better of it, Russia could no longer hesitate or hold out for terms. This Stalin well knows, and while he is making use of his present opportunity to barter, his aloofness is reassuring rather than disquieting as to the outlook for peace. If he believed war was imminent he could not afford to hold off.

Perhaps the Delay Was Welcome

Fogs and ice-bergs are no respecters of persons or programs. Fortunately that was remembered by those who arranged the Royal journey to Canada, and they allowed nine days for the Atlantic crossing which the liner can ordinarily make in six. Evidently a leasurely cruise was contemplated in any case, and it transpired that the three days' grace were not sufficient. As a result the visit to Ottawa had to be cut in half in order that the remainder of the schedule should not be thrown out of hitch. The delay will therefore not dislocate arrangements made for the itinerary across the Dominion and back, and for the visit to the United States.

So far as the King and Queen were concerned, the experience of being marooned on a comfortable steamer may not have been altogether unwelcome, though they will not say so. The Royal tour has been described, in humor but not without serious significance, as a "Royal torture". To most people the prospect of travelling to and fro across the continent in a month, preceded and surrounded by guards and safeguards, with halts for official welcomes and popular demonstrations, would seem more like a punishment than a holiday. Thanks to the fog and ice, Their Majesties had a couple of extra days of quiet "far from the maddening throng"—at the expense of spending two days less in the sweltering weather Ottawa usually stages about this time of the year. Who shall blame them if they feel only the measure of regret that politeness requires?

Eventually, Why Not Now?

It is estimated that $500,000 would complete the Edmonton-Jasper highway up to the standard required to meet the somewhat exacting demands of motor tourists. The job could be finished this summer, or enough done to ensure its completion by the time the tourist season will open in 1940. The importance of this is that the Lake Louise highway may be finished late this fall, and will in any case be open for tourists next year. Unless the Jasper-Edmonton road is by that time completed, the tourists who follow the mountain highway north from Lake Louise will in the great majority prefer to double back on their tracks rather than make the return trip by way of Edmonton. If it is completed, they will be offered all the attractions and advantages of a circle tour taking in Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise, Jasper, Edmonton — and points east or south, according to their destinations.

To the tourist living in the United States or in eastern Canada and contemplating a trip to Alberta's mountains, the inducements this circle tour would offer are readily apparent. It would be not less attractive to people living in Alberta, whether in the north or south, who could swing around the circle in three days or so, see the mountains, and also learn something about crop and other conditions in the central part of the province.

The sum of $100,000 has been earmarked for construction work on the Jasper highway this year, half provincial and half federal money. The Provincial Government is prepared to contribute $200,000 more if the Dominion will donate a like amount; thus providing for the completion of the road. As the Dominion is responsible for operating the national parks, and has contributed heavily to highway approaches to other parks, it will be mistaken economy if this offer is not accepted. At best it is only a question of doing the work now, or next year or the year after. Why delay, and lose the advantages from the standpoint of drawing tourist traffic to Jasper?

Editorial Notes

District highways in Alberta are to be made and improved this year, as last, under a revised type of the old "statute labor" plan. The Provincial Government will put up $250,000 for the purpose and the municipalities will be asked to allow residents to work off $500,000 taxes. For each $2 taxes thus paid by labor, the taxpayer will get $1 in cash from the Government grant. Apparently the plan was found to work satisfactorily last year, since it is being employed again.

One Alberta member told parliament the initial wheat price scheme was a plan on the part of Hon. J. G. Gardiner to benefit Saskatchewan at the expense of Alberta. By what curious process of reasoning he reached the conclusion is not explained, and probably does not matter. The working maxim of some opposition groups at Ottawa is to never credit the Government with a worthy motive if a bad one can be thought of.

The Commons on Saturday gave final approval to the bill setting the initial price for wheat sold to the wheat board at 70 cents per bushel. Just to provide for possible contingencies it would be a good idea to also adopt the suggestion of Mr. Motherwell, and give the Government power to raise the initial price if anything should occur to radically disturb the present price-balance, an outbreak of war for instance.

It would be highly appropriate, as suggested by the civic bylaws committee, to switch the names of Portage avenue and Kingsway, so that the latter title would attach to the two-mile stretch of paved street over which the Royal procession will pass twice during the visit of Their Majesties to the city. It is equally fitting that the beautiful little space opposite the National Railways depot should be christened "Queen's Park." Perhaps the influence of the name would help to revive interest in the original intention to make this a much larger "breathing place" than it now is.

Taxes Are Poor Economy

Canadian tax exemptions on profits used for expansion or plant improvement, thus encouraging work creating activities, earns commendation among United States students of the economics of taxation.

The Brookings Institution and Fortune Magazine, in independent studies, agree in their conclusion that it is not the size of the tax burden that is holding up recovery, but the kind of taxes.

Everybody agrees that the best way to solve the tax problem is to eliminate the particular taxes which bear most heavily on him.

But with taxes, as with tariffs, it is dangerous to frame a system as a haphazard balance between conflicting claims of individual interests. Only the most disinterested study on the highest plane will produce results.

Both these investigators agree that present taxes, at least in their country, tend to keep money from flowing into new investment enterprises.—Calgary Albertan.

Not Alberta: This Is London

Reginald McKenna, chairman of The Midland Bank, a recent Chancellor of the Exchequer, and one of the high panjandrums of British finance, is all up on his ear with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. And McKenna talks to Norman in such language as we might expect to hear directed from Edmonton at the Bank of Canada.

Says McKenna to Norman that the Bank of England, by secret application of a policy of inflation, has put skids under the stock market, in witness whereof he points to its being deeper in the dumps than it was at the former low when the Fuehrer was threatening war, just before the Munich conference. Cheap money, says he—there isn't any. And even for the money it will have to borrow for those vital armaments the Government proposes to pay more.

There are times when restriction of the flow of money is necessary, but The Midland Bank Review says this is not one of those times because the financial position of the country is sound and the export of gold has not yet created a serious position. And Mr. McKenna's Midland Bank, presenting its compliments to Mr. Norman's Bank of England hopes its policy may be "nothing more than another temporary aberration from the course of wisdom and self-interest."—Calgary Albertan.

One Never Can Tell

In Saturday's Journal there was a story telling how "Mr. Ribbentrop" had an obscure part in a night of song and dance for charity put on in the Russell Theatre here in Ottawa 25 years ago. The "Mr. Ribbentrop" was the boy who became the man Joachim von Ribbentropp, No. 3 Nazi, at the right of Hitler, trafficking in world destiny.

These days, one never knows. The obscure individual we pass in the street with barely a glance, or the chap who takes refuge with us in a doorway from a shower of rain, may turn out some day to be a dictator, shaping our whole lives. Emil Ludwig Williams, in his "World of Action," tells how one day in Paris in 1919 Lloyd George was too busy to see an Italian newspaperman. The newspaperman was Benito Mussolini. Trotsky, before he became one of the central figures in those "ten days which shook the world," lived in a New York East Side tenement, got out a little paper that nobody read. Stalin was an obscure Georgian. Hitler a down-and-out in Vienna.

So it goes. The world today is no longer ruled by a class or a caste; but by strange forms and things and people who, in the turbulent sea of life, keep coming to the surface.

The moral? There are a lot of them. One that occurs to us readily is that it isn't a bad idea these days to be civil to everybody.—Ottawa Journal.

The Small Loans Act

Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of National Revenue, sponsoring the Small Loans Act, 1939, in the House of Commons, said:

"Perhaps I should say something about the bill itself. I want to disabuse hon. members of any mistaken ideas they may entertain on this point. The 2 per cent a month is not a limitation on interest; it is a limitation on the cost of the loan. That is to say, the statute books on which limits the rate of interest is the Money Lenders Act, and that remains; we are not repealing that Act. If the present bill passes and any borrower is able to show that the interest proper, the pure interest that is being charged, is over 12 per cent per annum, he will be able to invalidate the transaction, but it is impossible to distinguish interest proper from the other charges that are also made against the borrower. . . . This bill defines the cost of a loan to include everything, all the expenses of the loan.

"Hon. members may say to themselves, as would be very natural, that 2 per cent a month seems like quite a lot, and they may wonder if it would not be possible to make it less than that. Hon. members should remember that we are not talking about a loan of a thousand or fifteen hundred dollars on a mortgage. We may be and are talking of loans of $50 and $100 for a short time, a few months; and universal experience in this small loan business has shown that if by law you deny the right to charge as much as 2 per cent a month in the case of these small loans no one will legally make loans. That has been the universal experience. So really we are doing harm rather than good if we make the rate too low, no matter how good a speech we may make on the subject or what an appeal we may make to people who do not understand the situation. The fact is that we will just be making the situation worse rather than better if we do not make this percentage sufficient.

"For the first time the legislation brings under control all classes of money lenders. It includes not only dominion companies, but provincially incorporated companies, and individual money lenders. It brings the real charges out into the open so that he who runs may read.

"The rate of 2 per cent is high enough to permit the legitimate money lending company to live and to carry on, but we do not think it is too high, or so high as to permit them to derive undue profits, in the light of the experience of such companies elsewhere, and in view of what others have found out to be practical in this line of business. It provides for control by the attorneys general, in discharging the responsibility of enforcement of the criminal law, and it provides for control by the superintendent of insurance."

The Passing Show
By J. S. COWPER

"Slow but sure" seems a new work-theory when applied to poets. Usually they are pictured as working—like Lowell when he wrote The Vision of Sir Launfal—in an ecstacy of poetic fervor. The long narrative poem of the knight who sought in vain for the Holy Grail—then found it in the wine cup he had given the leper—was written in two days. Every columnist will soon be quoting the opening lines of the early stanza that says:

HE'S WRITING A MASTERPIECE

And what is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days;
Then Heaven tries the earth if it be in tune,
And over it softly her warm ear lays.

The great American epic poem is in process of being written at the rate of three lines a day. John G. Neihardt, former literary editor and short story writer, gave up magazine work a few years ago to devote himself to writing, at three lines a day, the great epic poem of the west.

It will be 15,100 lines long—longer than Virgil's "Aeneid," which celebrates the glory of Rome and of Julian house. Most of it is now written. It will be in five sections, each called a "song"—The Song of Three Friends; The Song of Hugh Glass; The Song of Judge Smith; The Song of the Indian Wars and The Song of the Messiah.

Neihardt is no crank. As a boy he lived in the West when it was barely out of the frontier stage, saved soap wrappers to get volumes of Browning and Tennyson, read Virgil in the original at 15, and at 30 learned Greek to read Homer and Aeschylus in Greek. He knows the types of whom he writes, and had won success as editor and writer before he decided to write the great poem of the West. He is a perfectionist and believes he can do better by concentrating on three perfect lines a day than by working in a frenzy.

At the World's Fair is a most tantalising exhibit for youngsters—and others. It is a cashier's cage with a number of silver coins lying on the counter. Any one is free to make a grab for the coins. Alas; the moment a hand passes through the opening, an "electric eye" moves the coins out of reach.

A FREE GRAB FOR THE COINS

No matter how fast you grab, the electric eye is quicker. If only they'd invent something that would bring allver coins to one! They have a bicycle on exhibition that rides at high speed without falling over. An electric eye manipulates a balancing device.

Strange how old some new things are and how ignorant we are of common phenomena. Everybody thinks water rushes in a solid stream from a faucet; a strobscope at the Fair shows that the stream consists of large drops separated by an inch or so, and changing its shape rhythmically as they fall. The Yale Lock exhibit discloses that the founder of the company got the idea from a hardwood lock 4,000 years old. It was made in Egypt and after 3,000 years of service was placed on the Crusaders, in 1099, on the west gate of the enclosure to the Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem. Eight hundred years later it came into possession of the Yale family. It is now on exhibition at the Fair, enclosed in a glass case. It is to be with the pins on a wooden key, like a steel brush. It took the slick Yankee to see a fortune in manufacturing a pin lock, based on the 4,000-year-old Egyptian lock.

Fashions change. In 1914 Germany plunged Europe into war for the technical reason that a crazed youth in Sarajevo had shot the Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand. Now comes word that the Nazis have accomplished the death of the Archduke's son. Duke Ernst Hohenberg, in a mar. Walking home from a midnight party in Vienna in January of last year, the Duke felt very annoyed at seeing an illuminated swastika sign over the German Reichsbank. He hurled his umbrella at it.

A pro-Nazi who witnessed the act, reported it to Nazi officials. The Duke was taken to a police station, but released on proving his identity. Next day, the Duke was in his early thirties, paid for the damage and called at the German Legation to present his apologies to the German Ambassador, Franz von Papen.

Three months later, Hitler sent his troops into Germany. The Duke was marked man. He was promptly arrested and thrown into a concentration camp.

There are two Czech flyers the Gestapo would like to lay hands on. They were ordered to pilot two fast army planes from Delmuto to Munich last week. Tanks were filled, and two German airmen were ready to step aboard to escort the fliers. Suddenly the Czechs turned on the Germans, breaking a leg of one of them in the scuffle. Then they took to the air towards Poland though they had fuel enough to reach France.

It was the younger Mazaryk who said "There are eight million Czechs. It be God help the Germans if trouble starts."

TWO STANZAS

Not all who habitually sing it know that the Long Metre Doxology is but the closing stanza of Bishop Thomas Ken's hymn, written two hundred years ago. "Awake, my soul, and with the sun." The author was a great churchman in his day, but all his ecclesiastical honors are eclipsed by the four lines, which countless millions have sung—probably oftener than any other hymn or song:

"Praise God from Whom all blessings flow."

This soaring sentiment of worship is preceded, in the full hymn, by another which may well be every Christian's morning prayer:

"Direct, control, suggest, this day
All I design, or do, or say;
That all my powers, with all their might,
In Thy sole glory may unite."

As we adore Thee, O ineffable Lord, may all our worship be accompanied by obedience in Thy most holy will. Amen.

Sweepstakes and Raffles

Editor, Bulletin: So the city police deemed it advisable to clear the streets of auto raffles? Seems rather undemocratic to take this action without making a public statement on the subject, as there have been several other such raffles conducted as no distant date on our main stem. Would it not have been more democratic to set a date in the future after which no raffles would be allowed, and thus not make fish of one and fleah of another?

But what is legal, nowadays? Lotteries, and certain gaming machines and boards, seem to have a legal status, while horse-racing betting is winked at. The fine levied on the "bookies" once a year seems to make it a legal occupation.

In a recent number of an American monthly a few facts were disclosed re cost of gambling across the line. No figures on this matter are available concerning Canada, but perhaps a few figures from the U.S. article might lead to a comparison with Canada.

In 1935 the estimated figure for horse-racing betting was $3,000,000,000. Sweepstake tickets, slot machines, punch boards, pin-ball machines, lotteries, raffles, and other such games were estimated as having turned over $4,100,000,000. Comparison was made with figures of a legitimate nature, U.S. administration costs (minus wages paid on W.P.A. projects), $7,500,000,000; while the total receipts for farm produce in the bumper year of 1936 were $6,300,000,000.

It was also clearly pointed out that this "business" was not in the interest of the people, as the greater proportion of money thus spent is taken from the class of people who can least afford the loss.

Money thus spent is not a trade producer. Just like taking money out of your pocket and putting it into someone else's. Sometimes, but very rarely, reversed.

An American sweepstake syndicate tried to sell their tickets in the Irish Free State, but were notified shown the door. On the last Dublin sweepstake it was estimated that slightly over $6,000,000 was won by citizens of the U.S., but it was also estimated that over $12,000,000 had gone across the water to purchase same.

If we cannot legalize sweepstakes in Canada, then why don't we place a legal ban against the sale of tickets in this country?

Honor South African Vets

Editor, Bulletin: Re: the Royal visit of Their Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. I suggest a place of distinction in the guard of honor, or with the V.C.'s, for our few remaining South African war veterans of whom we hear and see so little, but who deserve the very best we can give them!

Being wife of one of these heroes who was guard of honor on several occasions to the present King's grandfather, King Edward VII, I thought it would be splendid for both citizens and school children to see the men of a war previous to the Great War, for had they failed Britain then, the Empire would not now be the only place worth living in!

Give credit where credit is due! Long live Their Majesties!

On This Date
By FRED WILLIAMS

Fifty years ago today (May 17, 1889) Quebec city had one of the disastrous fires which have marked her history. Only old timers will remember the horror with which the citizens witnessed the spread of flames through the parish of St. Sauveur. A high wind hastened the destruction, for burning embers carried the fire to houses blocks apart, whose wooden roofs were like tinder. Before the flames were controlled 700 houses, several churches, schools and many business places were destroyed. More than 5,000 were made homeless, while many aged and sick died and the hospitals were crowded with the injured or nerve-shaken.

Apart from its importance as one of the great fires of Quebec, the day is notable for a display of military heroism, of which the permanent force of the Canadian militia is justly proud. When it became evident that the fire brigade was helpless the troops at the Citadel were called out under command of Major G. J. Short, Royal Canadian Artillery. Determined to, if possible, stay the progress of the fire the major ordered the use of explosives and in so doing signed his own death warrant. A fuse was laid in a mined area but went off too soon and Sergeant Walleck of "B" Battery, was trapped. Without hesitation Major Short hurried to his assistance. The explosion came and both were buried in the ruins.

He (not a brilliant conversationalist): "Something came into my mind just now and went away again."

She (bored): "Perhaps it was lonely."

WHITECOURT

Fires still rage here, principally in the region surrounding House Mountain, 10 miles south of town. Reports still have three fires to be coped with in that vicinity although one had been successfully trenched by late Saturday night. All available men from the town have been out for some time. It is difficult to make headway due to the extreme dryness here. Whitecourt has still to have its first rain of any moment. The dust has barely been laid as yet this spring.

TROCHU

Students of the Three Hills town school captured top honors in the district music festival held here, winning the Foster aggregate trophy and also the town cup. Fairmont students won the aggregate trophy for rural schools, while Trochu was awarded high marks in the drama competition. More than 200 students took part in the festival. The festival will be held in Three Hills next year.

Adjudicators were Miss O. Fisher of Calgary, N. Kennedy of Calgary, L. Wright of Olds, Mrs. M. A. Davis of Red Deer and Mrs. J. P. Ferguson of Trochu.

HANNA

A branch of the Treasury department will be established in Hanna within the next 30 days, G. L. MacLachlan M.L.A., chairman of the Social Credit Board visited Hanna over last week-end accompanied by representatives of the Department of Trade and Commerce, Department of Public Works, and Mr. Cogan, manager of the Treasury Branch at Drumheller.

The merchants of the town and country points are being canvassed to sign the agreements to do business with the branch when opened. A good response from the businessmen is expected. About 14 agencies will be established in the surrounding country.

WASKATENAU

Asher W. Warr, pioneer resident of this district, passed away suddenly at the age of 54 years. Coming here in 1907, he was widely known and respected. This is Life Insurance

IN THOUSANDS OF Canadian homes, life insurance money pays the bills—helps to support widows and children—and provides for old age.

Life insurance dollars buy the food for three square meals a day. They buy clothing and other necessities of life. They pay the rent and fuel bills to ensure warm, comfortable homes. They give children an education and a mother's care.

Each year, life insurance policyowners and their beneficiaries in Canada receive 150 million dollars—five hundred thousand dollars every working day—twenty thousand dollars every hour.

And it is significant that more than 75% of all life insurance payments are made to living policyholders.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Spastic colitis causes the patient to be acutely aware that the large intestine is not doing its work in a normal way.

This trouble is a functional disorder, that is, a disorder due to a derangement is considered to result from an instability of the nervous system, with the main signs of such instability being seen in the gastro-intestinal tract.

The typical patient with spastic colitis is intelligent, and is apparently born with this high nervous system. He is unable to stand up well under stress or strain and an increase in his emotional load is promptly followed by an increase in his symptoms.

As a general rule the patient with spastic colitis has been on a nervous tension, and the physical expression of that tension is a tight, rigid contraction of the colon.

Some of the symptoms seen in this condition are: alternating periods of constipation and diarrhea; excessive accumulation of gas; a tired or exhausted feeling; and various nervous symptoms such as sweating of the hands, trembling, a sense of pressure within the head, or a twitching of a muscle. The patient may feel vaguely uneasy or anxious.

Abdominal tenderness or soreness is commonly seen, sometimes restricted to the left side of the colon which is spastic, sometimes felt over most of the abdomen, and sometimes restricted to the course of the colon. The patient may complain of a griping, colicky pain. There is usually considerable gas. Indigestion, poor appetite, and rapid beating of the heart are other common symptoms.

The outstanding feature of spastic colitis is a persistent contraction of the muscular fibers within the wall of some part of the colon. This produces a narrowing of the colon in that particular part, causing it to become much smaller. An X-ray picture of the colon, if taken during one of these periods, would show this narrowing of the part very plainly, and the affected part will be seen as a thin, pencil-like shadow instead of being normal as to size. Usually, in long-standing cases, this narrowing of one part is attended by pouching or ballooning of some other part of the colon.

While a spastic contraction is partly due to nervous factors, it may be produced by irritation from the unwise use of cathartics.

As spastic colitis is apparently on the increase, many readers will be interested in the treatment. This phase of the disorder will be discussed in my article tomorrow. Watch for it in this newspaper.

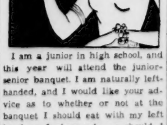

With suitable treatment, the symptoms of spastic colitis are generally capable of being greatly lessened, thus cutting down on the discomfort experienced by the patient. In many cases, the disorder may be completely banished, but a complete cure is generally not likely in all cases, as so much depends upon the patient's willingness to try to control his reaction to events which cause nervous strain. When the patient is really sincere in his effort to make himself over in the sense of learning how to remain calm, then a very satisfactory cure may be obtained.

What To Do

I am a junior in high school, and this year will attend the junior-senior banquet. I am naturally left-handed, and I would like your advice as to whether or not at the banquet I should eat with my left hand as I always do, or should I try and eat with my right? This will be a formal occasion at a hotel.

LUCILLE G.

Answer—I believe it would be best for you to eat with your left hand, since that is natural to you. If you try to eat with your right hand at the banquet you will really be more awkward and embarrassed, because you are not used to it. Just try to eat carefully, so you won't disturb the person seated to your left. There is no reason at all to be embarrassed about eating with your left hand if you manage it naturally and gracefully. However, if you feel sensitive about it you might practice at home eating with your right hand, so the next time you must eat in public you will be able to use your right hand if you wish.

U. Of A. Graduates Hear Of Delight Of Simpler Things From Convocation Speaker

"OUR wish to you upon your graduation is that your University has taught you the delight to be found in simple things, and that bigness is not in any way synonymous with greatness," declared the eloquently Mr. Leonard W. Brockington, K.C., of Winnipeg, chairman of the Board of Governors of the CBC, addressed the members of the graduation class of 39 students at their Convocation exercises in McDougall United church on Tuesday afternoon. "It is the hope of we older folk, too," went on Mr. Brockington "that we have caught the gleam and romance of life, and that you will stay within our borders to put your university training into practice, so that the people from whom you sprang and among whom you live might have the richness and glory of your education."

To create in this western Canadian world, poets, singers doctors and workers who will weave a colorful and true tapestry of the life of western Canada—which is so unique and so distinct—is the task Mr. Brockington put to them in the closing words of his address.

Sonnysayings

I tells stories so good I am beginnin' t' hab goose bumps up my own back!

Chatter . . . .

Forty froggies went to school down beside the rushing pool. . . . But we know of two white hens that went to Convocation. Brought in under the gowns of a number of prankseome graduating students, they remained docile and happy as hens should in the dignity of the solemn ceremony we s a w them to the four winds when, suddenly, right in the midst of proceedings, an enraged and protesting hen was sent flying right into the air, flapping her wings and screeching generously, generally creating the impression of a hen in distress.

• • • •

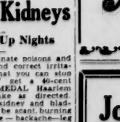

Learned doctors in scarlet and white gowns smiled indulgently, professors in black gowns and colored hoods twittered behind their programs, looked very wise in prettiest of graduation frocks with corsages of roses wilting at their shoulders, and blase guests . . . all turned eager and curious eyes to where the rumpus was coming from. Finally a graduating student, whom we suspect had something to do with the dark plot, calmly picked Mrs. Hen up by the scruff of the neck and ushered her out, still clucking angrily. And they say women are afraid of flying things.

• • • •

Quiet reigned once more, and the business of awarding prizes went on. The speaker of the afternoon finished, and the students one by one came up for their diplomas. Finally the agriculturists (B.Sc. in Agriculture to you) came up. Engineers (horrible fellows) had some razzing to do. Whistles moo-ed like cows, crackers snapped and suddenly another hen was seen flying up into the air. Protesting vigorously, scolding in hen-language, and uttering strange hen-like oaths, the poor creature fluttered and fluttered around for quite a while before it was silenced. Caused a certain consternation (not terror, of course) among the feminine ranks of graduates, but finally was subdued and came to a rest on some nice perch.

• • • •

Mr. L. W. Brockington, K.C., chairman of the board of governors of the CBC, was guest speaker, and humorously thanked his listeners for their kind reception. "I am really very touched with the reception I have received this afternoon, from these learned gentlemen behind me, the throng of young graduates in the hall, the parents—and, oh, yes, the Buff Orpingtons, Rhode Island Reds and the one dainty white Leghorn!"

"My Tom worked so hard and now he's got his degree," the proud math he had to take was so hard. You know, math is not an easy subject." Blushing happily one fair-faced mother complained admiringly her Bachelor-of-Arts son at the reception that followed the graduation exercises, and told her friends about her son's success. "As for son Tom, even though he was quite blase about it all, he did find his collar a little too tight, and the room a little too hot. Just as he was trying to impress that nice-looking sweet young graduate, too.

• • • •

"Congratulations. I knew you could do it. Imagine our surprise when we were greeted like this by one of our olden-time profs. "What, oh, oh, yes! Thank you," we said hurriedly. We couldn't tell him we had "done it" just three years ago Monday. "So we smiled, blushed sweetly, and said demurely, "Thank you."

• • • •

And so it's finished . . . all this fuss and feathers about another graduation day. And now there are 471 graduates, of both sexes, ages and types, inclinations and desires, setting out to find their way through the world. May they keep some of the laughter and the gaiety and joyousness, and a little of the desire for the real, the true, and a little of the wonder of the world in their eyes and in their hearts as they start out! The best to you, graduates!

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Don't get panicky and think the story's over if you are bothered by these symptoms. Listen to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

Historic Quebec Citadel To House Royal Couple First Night In Canada

QUEBEC, May 17.—The King and Queen will spend their first night in Canada in small, simple rooms at the Citadel, hardly changed since the building, high on Quebec's clifftop, was renovated as the summer residence of Canada's Governor-General a decade ago.

Two royal heads will every night rest on linen-cased feather pillows, hemstitched and monogrammed, from Government House in Ottawa. There are new white woolly blankets on the narrow wooden bed for the King, covered in blurred linen in dull rose and blue figures. The Queen has a pale pink crepe de chine coverlet over the blankets on her floral-chintz covered bed under an otherthrow of pink silk miore.

FLOWERS PLACED IN ROOM

Graceful white tulips in a green bowl add a restful touch on the high curved chiffoniere in her Majesty's room while a low plain glass bowl near her bed holds vivid scarlet blooms.

Across the long hallway reaching from one end to the other of the long second-storey living quarters of the old stone fort are the sitting rooms for the King and Queen. Here the first Canadian telephone conversation between the little princesses and their parents will take place today.

TALK WITH ENGLAND

The King may sit at the old spinnet desk in his grey-walled sitting room and gaze from the wide windows across the blue St. Lawrence while he talks with England. On the desk are the King's own unmarked cigarettes in a silver box. The Queen may join him or have her own conversations from her blue-and-rose sitting room next door where pictures futures of early Quebec, loaned by the archives, are on the walls.

Before retiring, the King and Queen may stroll on the board-walk outdoor terrace leading from the sitting room. The terrace is cut off from the public by a deep stone moat at one side and protected by a high stone wall from the roadway far below.

FLAG-STRUNG FERRIES

Here they will see the flag-strung ferries glistening with colored lights on their trips back and forth from Quebec, to Levis across the river. In the distance fireworks will burst forth adding a carnival note to the glittering panorama which stretches far along the coast to the Ile D'Orleans.

Cultured Voice Claims Charm For Its Owner

By ALICIA HART

By this time it's no secret that a good voice is a valuable asset to any woman.

Amateur speakers have at last realized that how they say it is as important as what they say. People no longer accuse a girl of being high-hat if her A's and R's are soft rather than hard and flat. Modern mothers think voice and speech instruction every bit as important for their small fry as dancing, swimming or piano lessons.

"Motion pictures and radio have had much to do with making people more voice conscious," explains Miss Crystal Waters, prominent voice and speech teacher.

Miss Waters went on to say that a truly lovely voice never comes from the mouth of one whose jaw is tense or who forms words at the back of the mouth instead of at the front of it.

"Yawning or going through the motions of yawning and simply swinging the jaw back and forth are the best relaxing exercises for it. Practice these until you get out of the habit of holding your teeth firmly together, your tongue against the roof of your mouth and throat closed. When your tongue isn't in use, keep the tip of it lightly against lower teeth. Remember that a tense jaw is the direct cause of a nasal twang.

"You no doubt like a low voice better than a high one," Miss Waters continued. "But this doesn't mean that all high voices are unpleasant. Indeed, a high voice properly placed, can be as nice as a low one.

"However, to enrich the tones of your voice, grunt twenty or thirty times a day. Yes, grunt like an animal. And don't confuse whining with grunting."

SCREEN STARS ARE GOOD MODELS

As an example of the rich, mellow tones which come from one whose jaw is relaxed, Miss Waters cited Hollywood star Mary Astor.

"Furthermore, Miss Astor's posture is excellent, especially her head and chest carriage. You can't get the best tones out of your vocal cords if you stand with chest caved in and head bowed."

Miss Waters also thinks Bette Davis's voice worthy of imitation by any woman.

"Miss Davis speaks clearly and maintains good voice quality no matter what emotion she is portraying. This is an important point. You know how irritating is the voice which becomes shrill in moments of excitement or emotional stress. However, only slightly less irritating is the too-soft voice which fades away in the middle of a sentence and which you usually have to strain your ears to hear."

Among Miss Waters' other rules for good diction and a pleasant voice are these:

"Learn to say nice things in a nice, warm, sincere tone of voice. Otherwise, you'll be accused of being a flatterer.

"Remember to take a breath at the end of each phrase.

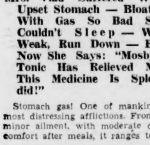

"Read aloud for at least an hour a week.

"Deep—really deep—breathing is a sure cure for temporary self-consciousness. Remember that when you have a speech to make or a group of strangers to meet."

Suffering Of 3 Years Ended By Mosby's Tonic!

Mrs. Viau Suffered With Upset Stomach — Bloated With Gas So Bad She Couldn't Sleep — Was Weak, Run Down — But Now She Says: "Mosby's Tonic Has Relieved Me. This Medicine Is Splendid!"

Stomach gas! One of mankind's most distressing afflictions. From a minor ailment, with moderate discomfort after meals, it ranges to a condition in which the stomach and intestines are bloated out of all natural proportion by loads of gas. This is usually accompanied by gaseous indigestion and constipation. Raw nerves, sleepless nights, headaches, worn out feeling, painful burning sensation in stomach — these are some of the common results of stomach gas.

Many people suffer from this distress. Some men and women are so bad off they can't even lie down in bed to sleep. When they do the stomach gas presses upward and they cannot breathe normally. So they have to prop themselves up in bed on pillows to get any rest. Others are swollen with gas almost constantly . . . 24 hours a day! Many of these people go on suffering, day after day. Nothing seems to help.

Mosby's Tonic Gives Gas Victims Real Relief

Now, however, there is a certain measure of relief for these sufferers. MOSBY'S TONIC is helping them by the THOUSANDS. This is the New Mosby Co. of Roots and Herbs and Other beneficial Medicinal Agents, now being introduced to crowds of people daily here in Edmonton at the Army & Navy Drug Store. Its Herbs have splendid action on stomach gas. They expel it from you. Soon after your first dose the gas starts leaving. Presently you feel different all over.

For just a few days ago, Mrs. G. Viau, of 1462 St. Denis St., Montreal, Que., made the following statement. Mrs. Viau has lived in Quebec 26 years and is well known. Read what she has to say about MOSBY'S TONIC:

3 Years With Gas Distress and Constipation

"I make this statement of my own free will because I want to help others as I had Mrs. Viau. "I had 3 years of suffering with an upset stomach. My meals would turn to gas as quick as I ate them. The gas would bloat me up and cause such pains that I couldn't sleep at night. I was also constipated and had to take laxatives regularly. Finally I got so bad off from all this suffering that I was completely worn out. Was weak and run down.

"Well, finally I found Mosby's Tonic and it was WHAT I NEEDED. This medicine cleared the gas and bloat out of my stomach and relieved me so that I can eat anything I want now, and have no gas afterward. My appetite has returned and I sleep soundly all night now, and I get my proper rest and my bowels are cleansed and regular. This medicine has given me new strength and energy and I feel fine. I gladly endorse it to all who suffer as I did."

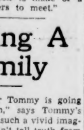

Acts on Bowels, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys

MOSBY'S TONIC contains 20 Ingredients, including 15 Roots and Herbs. It acts on the bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys. Makes weak, worn out people feel different all over. The price of this New Scientific Compound is Reasonable, due to the immense volume in which it sells. So don't hesitate. Get Mosby's Tonic—TODAY!

A Special Mosby's Tonic Representative, known as the MOSBY TONIC Man, is now at the Army and Navy Dept. Store, Edmonton, daily meeting crowds of people and introducing and explaining this New Compound. Talk done.

Raising A Family

"I'm afraid our Tommy is going to be a problem," says Tommy's mother. "He has such a vivid imagination that he can't tell truth from fact. It is getting to the point now where he makes up people to talk to. There's no reason, because he has a lot of playmates."

She need not have worried. Not all children make up "people" to talk to, but a great many do. It's just one more thing that fond mothers fear must be normal.

Well, it isn't at all. A child does O R Burton it because he likes to, and that's a good reason, isn't it? We all do things we like. We like to think of some imaginary land where there is no work, no responsibility, and where everyone thinks we are the very tiktel. True, we don't go talking to these people, but there they are, in our minds' eyes, and the vision never leaves us as long as we live.

FANCIFUL "FRIENDS" THINK CHILD IS TOPS

Children make up playmates—sometimes animals. The "bunny" that isn't there, takes on human qualities. He is a very nice bunny and understands our Tommy.

Maybe the bunny doesn't do one thing himself, but is very receptive and kept in the dark so that mother can practice his virtues on him.

Furthermore, the bunny has no bothersome opinions of his own. But one thing he does do, and that is to think his host is tops. Oh yes, this brain child always admires his creator.

The little girl often chooses a "Lady" to play with. This lady represents the whole adult world that reminds, manages, criticizes and often misunderstands. But not "Mrs. Jones." She is as impersonal as the bunny.

DREAM PALS DEFEAT HIS "FOES"

The kind of dream pals the child has will be consistent with his need and his nature. The boy may want a more stirring companion. So he makes up an elephant, because he wants something bigger than his parents, bigger than the people always telling him to do things. But like all dream children, the elephant will disappear without leaving a trace.

They serve their purpose, these make-ups, and then walk off, never to return.

Minute Make-Ups

Of course, you're keeping your legs smoothly free of fuzz this Spring—under your sheer stockings. And remember that, with care, a dry shave works perfectly well. Dust talcum powder over the hairy area, then draw your razor gently over it. A minute on each leg and it's done.

DATE WITH DANGER

By HELEN WORDEN

CHAPTER VI

THE weather had suddenly turned warm with the first hint of spring and rain.

"Devilish hot in this car, Reilly," complained Fenelon to his chauffeur. "Give us some air. Now go to the morgue and make the ride short."

"Very good, sir." Pat Reilly tipped his hat. He was powerful, over six feet tall. His bristly red hair and humorous blue eyes made him look very Irish. With a purr of motors he piloted the commissioner's car through deserted streets.

The shriek of the siren echoed eerily against the empty blocks of tenements, secret and menacing at this hour. There was a sinister quality in the intense blackness.

Ladd stirred restlessly. This hellish siren gets on my nerves. Even under ordinary circumstances it's bad enough, but in these streets it's unearthly! Four o'clock. Lighting a match to look at his wrist watch.

"We'll be at the morgue in five minutes. That will give us a break for the first edition and be too late for the morning papers."

"I'm inclined to believe this is the girl we're looking for," Fenelon spoke quietly.

Speeding automobile tires swished over wet streets, skidding slightly when Reilly gave the steering wheel a twist.

As the commissioner's car made a second turn, Bellevue loomed up against the sky. Lights gleamed in the morgue wing. A sudden gust of wind lashed the rain against the car windows, blotting out the city hospital, the morgue and the twinkling lights.

The wind blew the rain in Mary's face as she climbed out. Ladd and Fenelon braced themselves against the fury of the storm. They entered the morgue in a flurry of wind that sent a newspaper on the watchman's desk flying across the stone floor.

"Right this way, Commissioner, we're expecting you," said the porter. He chuckled good-naturedly. "Mighty glad to have visitors this time o' night. Gets sorta lonesome here."

He was a little man with a cheerful, round button of a face and a shining, bald head. His blue eyes twinkled humorously.

Ladd smiled. "I would hardly call this spot lively, even in the daytime."

"You newspaper chaps never learn to take things phlegmatically," commented Fenelon. "We fellows would be dead before we started it if we let our surroundings affect us."

"It's a mighty good thing they do affect us," broke in Ladd. "If we didn't feel strongly, we wouldn't be writing."

He turned back to take Mary's arm.

"Worn out?"

"No. Just oppressed by this place. I guess I'm not a good reporter. I've never liked morgues."

The watchman guided them into the office. "Commissioner Fenelon, sir," he announced. On a tall, saturnine-faced man sitting in front of a small desk.

"How are you, Ryan?" asked Fenelon. "Ladd, I suppose you know Detective Ryan. Society editors seldom have occasion to pay calls at the morgue."

Mary smiled. "You'd be surprised, Commissioner. We have reason for coming to the morgue oftener than you think."

Ryan, a typical plain-clothesman, gave a taciturn nod. "I understand you want to see the girl who was found in the East river. The medical examiner is waiting. Shall we go?"

His pale lips were tight and thin, making his mouth a mere slit, and one eye drooped, the result of either a bullet wound or the gash of a knife which had left a scar that slanted down from the right eyebrow.

Mary felt glad he was on their side, but the clamminess of his presence disturbed her.

The girl musta died about four hours ago," Ryan remarked. "She's just stiffening now."

Grimly he unlocked the narrow door. A stairway curved down into the morgue.

"Second tier to the right," said Ryan briskly. With dawn on a November morning still two hours away, electric lights burned bleakly in the centre of the great refrigerating room, their glow dimly reflected in the white tiles that extended halfway up the side walls.

Closed thing you have your coats on," said Ryan, "it's always chilly down here. We've got to keep it at a certain temperature, or a cold storage plant, you know." He shivered.

Mary felt her throat tighten as he turned into the first lane rimming the tall metal cubicles. They reminded her of filing cabinets, one sliding drawer above another, human records with finis marked on them.

Dr. Albert Morris, the medical examiner, was standing at the head of the first aisle. Squarely built, of more than middle age, he had a chunky face with penetrating blue eyes. His mustache was gray and bristling and he spoke in quick tones. He wore a white operating apron and long rubber gloves.

"Glad to see you, Fenelon. It's an interesting case. Those your friends?" he asked, glancing at Mary and Tom.

"Yes, Doctor, this is Miss Frankin, society editor of the Gazette. She thinks she can identify the girl. And this is Ladd, managing editor of her paper."

"It's a simple case of suicide by drowning," Dr. Morris said. "Officer Murphy declares he struggled more than 15 minutes with her in the water."

He beckoned to a morgue attendant. Commissioner Fenelon wants to see the young woman they dragged out of the East river."

The attendant, a middle-aged man dressed in a white uniform, reached for the handle of a box on the second tier. "Poor girl," he said. "She's dressed up as if she was going to a par'y. . . . You know."

"Miss Franklin is the only one who knows the girl we're looking for," said Fenelon tersely. "Mary, we're depending on you for this identification. Look well and tell us whether or not this is Janice French."

The attendant pulled out the drawer. On a flat slab was stretched a slim form, covered by a long white sheet. Gently the attendant lifted the sheet. There lay a young girl, straight and slender, her red-gold hair dripping with water, her long, dark lashes drawn over closed eyes. Her heart-shaped face was ghastly white and there were blue circles about her mouth, still scarlet with lipstick. A pink chiffon evening gown clung to her body and on her feet were silver slippers.

"We don't undress them," explained the attendant. "Clothes help in the identification." He directed a lamp on the dead face.

"My God, she was beautiful!" exclaimed Fenelon.

"It's Janice French, all right," Mary said weakly.

Ladd held out an arm to steady her. "You can't break," he said. "The story isn't written yet." He studied the dead girl's face.

"Doctor," he said, "I'm not satisfied to close this case with a suicide verdict."

Dr. Morris started to speak. "I know and you know that it was suicide."

Ladd held up a hand.

"But perhaps if you called an inquest we might get at the cause of the suicide."

Fenelon glanced at him sharply. "That's right, Doctor. We may make out the real murderer. I'd like to have you perform an autopsy on this body."

"And when I do?" queried the doctor.

"Look for traces of a drug in the stomach."

Dorothy Dix Says:

A correspondent asks: What is the happiest time of a woman's life? That is a question that it is impossible to answer definitely because it varies with each individual case. Perhaps none of us know it until the end comes and we look back over the years and assess what they brought us and realize that often when we were happiest we did not even know it.

For the young girl is not a blithesome being sailing joyously through the ether on glowing clouds of pink chiffon and feasting on strawberry ice cream. She is a terrified little adventuress starting out on frozen feet to make her way in a world of which she knows as little as she does about the heart of darkest Africa.

Every young girl's life is filled with agonizing anxieties about whether she will be popular with the boys; whether she will have plenty of cut-ins on her dances; whether she will be dated for this or that; whether some pimply-faced lad will fall for her or not; whether she will be married.

No. Youth is not the happiest time of life for a girl.

Brides are only traditionally happy and the bereavement is

Tourists Should Brush Up On Culinary Terms

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

It looks like a big travel year for Canadians in their own country. But with World's Fairs to attract us where many foreign unusual dishes will be offered, all good Canadians should brush up on their food vocabulary. In Chicago, a group of cooking experts compiled a list of such terms, and here it is in part.

Au Jus—Served with the natural meat juices, as "roast beef au jus."

Barbecue—To roast slowly whole or in pieces, on a gridiron, spit, or over coals in a specially prepared trench. Usually the meat is basted with a highly seasoned sauce.

Barbecue Sauce—Sauce with tomato base, highly seasoned with onion, garlic, vinegar and other spicy condiments, used for basting meat.

Beef a la mode—Braised beef with vegetables. The beef is usually larded ad the vegetables cut in small pieces.

Filet Mignon—A slice cut from beef tenderloin, wrapped in a bacon slice and broiled. Usually served with a sauce. The "mignon" means just.

Minute steak—A small tender steak, cut about ¾ inch thick and pan-broiled in a lightly greased frying pan, just long enough to brown attractively on both sides.

Planked steak—Steak broiled on a plank especially made for the purpose. The board is of hard wood. The steak is broiled partially, transferred to the plank, garnished with vegetables and then returned to the broiler to finish cooking.

Meat en brochette—Meat threaded on a skewer, either alone or alternating with pieces of onion or tomato or other vegetables, broiled as a rule, but may be cooked otherwise.

Pate—A delicate meat paste.

Noisette—A small piece of lean meat, generally a boned lamb chop. May be any similar piece of meat, however.

Do you know the official difference between bouillon and consomme? It is a little difficult. Both are clear soups, which may or may not be garnished.

Bouillon usually is said to be made of beef alone. Several meats, one of which should be chicken, may be used in making consomme. Beef can be included.

Color is a distinction, for bouillon is dark and consomme light. But here in Canada, cooks often call a clear soup a consomme or bouillon according to whim.

RHYTHMIC SWING SKIRT JACKET SUIT

For Town! Country! Travel!

2538 SIZES 12-20

In utterly smart and wearable little three-piece rayon crepe outfit, that gives you a town or country suit. Take the jacket off for luncheon, cocktails or dinner, and you've an adorable dress. The rhythmic skirt accentuates the tiny waistline of the basque bodice. This little double duty outfit also "splits up" to give a separate jacket, blouse or skirt. Cottons in solid colors or in floral prints, stripes, dots or checks are perfect for your summer vacation wardrobe. It's so easy to sew and the price is so surprisingly little.

Style No. 2538 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch material for bolero and skirt; and 1¼ yards of 39-inch material for blouse.

Send 15 cents in coins for pattern. Write plainly your Name, Address and Style Number. Be sure to state Size you wish.

Address order to The Edmonton Bulletin, Pattern Department, Edmonton, Alberta.

The bride's book, which no bride-to-be can afford to miss for a careful trousseau and hope chest, costs only 15 cents. The spring fashion book has new patterns for every type, every wardrobe requirement — new needlework designs. Send for it right away! Price is 15 cents.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The following hand appeared in a recent duplicate game and presented two problems on which I would like to have your decision:

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4 diamonds.	Pass	Pass	4 hearts
5 diams.	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

"The play progressed as follows:

"Trick 1: West opened the spade king; East played the four; and South ruffed.

"Trick 2: South led diamond ace, all followed suit.

"Trick 3: South led diamond king; East discarding a deuce.

"Trick 4: South led diamond queen; West discarded spade ten; East, club nine.

"Trick 5: South led diamond jack; West discarded club three; East, club deuce.

"Trick 6: South led diamond nine; East discarding the spade eight.

"Trick 7: South led heart queen; West's ace won; East played heart four.

"In view of South being marked with nine diamonds and probably three clubs and a singleton heart, should West lead a club, as partner asked him to do, or should he lead spade or heart in an endeavor to force declarer to play to East's club holding?

R. O. L., Ohio."

I shall answer the second question first, as follows: Since South's holding had been absolutely revealed as nine diamonds and no spades, and since it was 1,000 to 1 that East had a five card heart suit for his bid at the four level, declarer could hold no more than two heart and therefore must have three clubs. Under the circumstances, there was no conceivable reason for West to observe East's silly club signal. West should have laid down the spade ace or should have exited with his remaining heart, and East would have had to get two club tricks. This, of course, would have been cold for having discarded so badly. On the third lead of diamonds he could tell as well as West that declarer had started out in a void in the diamond suit. It was bad enough for East to have called for a club lead in the first place, but to lead it when he should have completed the echo, at the expense of blanking his A-Q of clubs, for the purpose of keeping worthless low hearts, is beyond explanation. Note that it would not have been fatal for West to have led a club at the eighth trick, except for the fact that East was reduced to two clubs—the ace and queen. If he had held three, or K-2, a club lead would have cost nothing; that is, the ace would win and East could exit by playing the heart king or a spade. Declarer still would lose to the club queen and so would be defeated.

As for the bidding, a four spade overcall, vulnerable, on West's holding would have been overly aggressive but the very height of logic if compared with East's actual reopening bid of four hearts. This latter was simply awful!

Through The Mill

Protesting against repeated requests by defence councel for adjournment of cases "to suit their own convenience" Magistrate A. I. Millar said Wednesday that some arrangements should be made to enable the prosecution to go ahead with a case after a reasonable length of time had elapsed.

The case that prompted the protest was that of two men and a woman, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile.

At their first appearance in the court, they were granted an adjournment of one week. Appearing again the second time, defense asked for a further adjournment of another week. That semed to be enough time to accomplish anything, but on the third appearance, on Wednesday, a third adjournment was asked by a member of the defence's firm because the solicitor handling the case "was tied up in the Supreme Court."

The case was adjourned to Thursday afternoon.

Broomhall

The Canadian wheat act has passed the second reading, which means that farmers will be protected for 70c a bushel for No. 1 Manitoba at Fort William, the usual discounts for lower grades, also Ontario soft wheat to the extent of 5,000 bushels. Seeding is practically terminated and a full acreage is believed to have been seeded. The farmers will be liable to deliver the best grades to the wheat board and dispose of the balance the best way they can. There are still some 142,000,000 bus. surplus wheat remaining in Canada for export and carryover today with 2½ months to harvest. Sales recently have improved owing to the decline in price. This wheat will be needed to improve the strength of the flour abroad. Four cargoes were bought by English millers this week and no doubt further purchases will be made around present levels.

95 PER CENT. WHEAT SOWN REPORT SAYS

Growth Is Average, Government Survey Shows —Wind Damage

With germination and growth of early sown wheat about average, between 90 and 95 per cent of wheat is sown in this province, according to the first crop report of the season, compiled by the provincial agriculture department and issued on Wednesday by Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister in charge.

The report states that high winds throughout the province for several days during the first part of May have not only caused soil drifting but have depleted surface moisture to such an extent that "general rains are needed soon and in some cases urgently."

Rain visited this district on Tuesday night.

ROAD CONDITION

The report, however, states that "Germination of early sown grain has been satisfactory and crops are generally in fair to good condition. A protracted period of dry weather, however, will endanger uniformity of germination of late sown grains and hasten further deterioration of crops which suffer from the effects of high wind. Permanent wind injury is not extensive and reseeding is restricted to small areas. Reserves of sub-soil moisture are inadequate in all districts and crop prospects appear to be dependent entirely on seasonal precipitation."

April temperatures are reported above normal at many points, with a new record maximum for the month of 87 degrees, established at Lacombe on April 29. Cooler weather in May coincided with the period of high winds which mitigated their harmful effects on the crop. On May 10, eight to 10 degrees of frost were reported, but no permanent injury was suffered

RAIN NEEDED

Livestock and dairy conditions reflect climatic factors. While stock wintered well, except in the Peace River district and are making satisfactory progress on good pasture, rain is needed in all districts.

Grasshoppers continue to be the most serious insect menace and although damage to date is negligible an intensive campaign is planned to control the pest.

No adverse reports have come to hand respecting other phases of agriculture, but depletion of top soil through wind erosion is a major problem and although serious damage is limited this year, the attention of farmers and business interests to this menace is necessary.

Cold weather and high winds have retarded maximum development of field crops.

COARSE GRAINS

Coarse grains are nearly all sown in the south and in northern districts from 40 to 75 per cent are seeded. Seed supplies have been adequate but in a few local areas where crop failures occurred last year, arrangements were made to supply financing for seed.

The condition of forage and pasture crops is satisfactory, although rains would be beneficial. Forage crops are now receiving greater attention. Under the Dominion-provincial forage crop policy, 62 municipalities have distributed 194,055 pounds of seed as compared to 173,367 pounds to 45 municipalities last year and 85,695 pounds to 22 municipalities in 1937. Adoption of rotations using forage crops is increasing and will continue materially to a more permanent and diversive agriculture.

Grasshopper bait is moving from a number of stations in the Lethbridge and Calgary areas. Damage from other insects is limited to a few reports on cut-worms.

Veteran Stan McMillan has come through again. About a week ago he hung up an all-time record when he flew into Yellowknife with mail—the earliest after break-up flight in the history of the north. On Tuesday he pulled a repeat performance to Goldfields.

So unexpected was his arrival at that town—as a matter of fact he landed at Long Lake, about two miles out of the town—that the citizens, who hold a sweepstake on the arrival of the first plane each spring hadn't even got the sweep started. He arrived back here Tuesday evening with mail from the town.

Because of the condition of the airports in the Peace River district Yukon Southern are not able to use their twin-engined Barkley-Grows on the Fort St. John-Edmonton run. The airports are now being repaired and until they are ready operations on this leg are being carried out with the speedy four-passenger Waco planes. The Barkley-Grow machines are being used on the Vancouver-Whitehorse runs.

HYDRO POWER TIE-UP WILL BE DISCUSSED

Calgary Firm Asks Inter-Connection—Paterson Suggests Standby

Calgary Power Company officials will present to the city power committee a plan for a mutual standby agreement, under which the city would not be compelled to take any power except in case of a breakdown.

The company men agreed to outline such a plan for the next meeting of the power committee, to be held at 8 p.m. Thursday. The request was made by Ald. A. Blair Paterson.

PRELIMINARY TALK

Preliminary discussion of a proposal by the company for an interconnection agreement between the Calgary hydro plant and the Edmonton steam power plant was held Tuesday night. The meeting was attended by G. A. Gaherty, Montreal, president of Calgary Power and G. H. Thompson, Calgary, manager of the company.

Members of the power committee are Ald. J. H. Ogilvie, chairman; Mayor John W. Fry; Aldermen Hugh John Macdonald, D. K. Knott, G. A. Campbell and Paterson.

The company proposed an interconnection agreement which, Mr. Thompson said, would give savings to both parties through delay in purchasing of new equipment to cover expansion.

The chief saving, Mr. Thompson said, would be made by the city and

The Inquiring Reporter

The dignity of Convocation in McDougall Auditorium was disrupted Tuesday by snatches of song from various faculties, explosion of cap guns and the grand finale—a chicken let loose by Engineering graduates.

"What do you think of the 'horsing' carried on at Convocation?" The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter asked today. Here are the answers:

JAMES SAIDLER, stockkeeper: It's a long hard grind for the students before they become grads so if they want to have some fun on their last day together, why just let them go ahead and have a really good time.

DICK CLIPPERTON, telegraph messenger: What the students do at Convocation isn't very important just so long as they manage to get up before the chancellor for their degree.

JEAN MACGREGOR, graduate: I've been to several Convocations and they are so long and often tedious that the odd bit of merriment certainly brightens up things a lot. When I graduated we all sang and brought in the odd discreet noisemaker, so that the dignified ceremony in some spots was slightly interrupted.

* * *

SADIE McTAVISH, secretary: I think it is a good idea, for in other Convocations in eastern Canada, there is more "horsing around" as you put it, than there is pomp and ceremony. Convocation is a day of rejoicing so let there be gladness, in whatever way the students wish to express themselves.

SAVANT SAYS STRENGTH IS BEST DEFENCE

Anti-Aggression Pact Is Claimed Strong Answer To Dictators

Peace depends upon the formation of an anti-aggression bloc so strong that it will deter the Fascist states from unbreathing the sword and embarking on another career of aggression, Dr. A. L. Sachar, processor of history at the University of Illinois, told the Canadian Club Wednesday noon at the Macdonald.

Dr. Sachar spoke on "Little Dictator—What Now?" E. Gunderson, Canadian Club president, was chairman.

Salvation of the world, Dr. Sachar said, depends upon having the anti-aggression bloc meet the dictators with their own weapon—strength.

Bloodless victories achieved by Italy and Germany are no sign of the inherent strength of Fascism, Dr. Sachar reasoned, as those victories have been due not so much to the valor of the brigand states as to the fact that the democracies were in retreat and were lamentably disunited.

Existence of class bogeys, he said, had resulted in having the western democracies not make as strong a stand as lay within their power.

Idea of forming a pact alliance with Russia, or working in concert with her for the preservation of peace, had been distasteful to sections of British opinion and to members of the British government.

Just as England had not hesitated to have an alliance with Czarist Russia in 1914, so she and France should not refrain from having an agreement with Soviet Russia today, Dr. Sachar advised, as it is clear that Russia cherished no plans of aggression and is not a war-making state.

STRONG BASIS

He felt that if the anti-aggression bloc is formed on a strong basis, that a halt will be called to further successful aggression by Italy, Germany and Japan.

He pointed out that neither Hitler nor Mussolini wanted war; all they wanted were the fruits of war.

Should war break out, Hitler would face the danger of an uprheaval within Germany as well as the risks of defeat in the conflict against a great bloc of powers organized to vindicate the public law of the world and to enforce the mandates of the human conscience from being outraged, he added.

Students Told Cherish Two Highest Pleasures: Mirth, Love Of Friends

University of Alberta graduates were urged Tuesday afternoon at their convocation exercises in McDougall church, in an address by Leonard W. Brockington, K.C., of Winnipeg, to remain true to the noblest ideals of their profession and so to live as never to forfeit the two supreme pleasures—laughter and the love of one's friends.

Chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Brockington, addressed convocation after receiving the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

The address, compact of wit and earnestness, sparkling with gleaming phrases newly minted in the merry fancy of Mr. Brockington, was punctuated with applause and in many ways was unique among convocation day speeches here.

RED RIDING HOOD

For one thing, it probably was the first time that any guest speaker, newly clothed with the dignity of doctor of laws, referred to himself as a "little Red Riding Hood."

Standing in the scarlet robes signifying his new academic dignity, Mr. Brockington referred to himself and the other two recipients of the honorary degrees—Hon. J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor, and Chief Justice, trial division, Alberta supreme court, Hon. Charles R. Mitchell—as the three little Mr. And Riding Hoods," as laughter rang through the crowded auditorium.

Mr. Brockington, formerly of Edmonton, said his first job here—in newspaper work—consisted in covering the dog fights on the south side. He found that he didn't have

AROUND THE TOWN

A small sparrow caused a fire in the electric sign of the Black Cat cafe, Jasper avenue, Sunday evening, when it built its nest in the sign and caused a short circuit which resulted in the blaze. Employees of the cafe extinguished the fire.

Dr. Archibald McEwan, 1939 graduate in dental surgery at the University of Alberta, left Edmonton three hours after graduation Tuesday to take up his dental practice in the north. He will cover points between Fort McMurray and Fort Norman, travelling mostly by boat. He was president of the Students' Union from 1937 to 1938.

Current collections of city taxes this month have shown a marked increase over the corresponding period last year, according to Thomas Walker, city assessor and tax collector. Up to the end of Tuesday, day after the quarterly due date, collections from May 1 were $419,739 as against $366,051 a year ago. Collections on Tuesday alone were $150,800 against $137,118 a year ago.

M. M. Elliott, Montreal, general sales manager of Marconi Radio Company Limited, here Wednesday on a periodic business trip, said that business conditions look promising and that his company enjoyed a good year last season. He is here in connection with the new battery sets and other new models the company is featuring and is at the Macdonald.

A large crowd of sorrowing friends paid their last respects to a prominent South Side business man, resident of the city for the past 45 years, when funeral services were held from the Holy Trinity Anglican church Wednesday afternoon for Frank Cowles, who died Sunday at the age of 71 years. Canon G. G. Reynolds officiated. Interment took place in the family plot at Mount Pleasant cemetery. Hainstock and Son were in charge of arrangements.

Plans for the transmitting and receiving of television programs in Canada will not be realized for another three or four years, according to M. M. Elliott, general sales manager for Canadian Marconi, who arrived here from Montreal Wednesday. His company is making great strides in the work of developing television, but trouble is being encountered as a result of the high cost of equipment and lack of a definite commercial basis for transmitting programs, Mr. Elliott stated.

Registered unemployed in this province on Saturday last totalled 7,234, according to figures released on Wednesday by officials of the Alberta Employment Service. This is a decrease over the previous week when the figure was 7,464. Of the total there were 6,620 men and 614 women. Calgary maintained its place as the unemployment centre of the province, registering a total of 3,065, of whom 2,820 were men and 245 women.

Manager of the Sterling Shoe store in Calgary, John McLean is in Edmonton for a business conference with D. J. Cochlin, manager of the company's Edmonton branch.

A meeting of the directors of the Edmonton Exhibition Association will be held in the Arena building at 8 p.m. Friday.

The Edmonton Stamp Collectors' Club will hold a meeting in the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street, Thursday at 8 p.m. W. S. Johnstone will be the speaker.

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret MacIntosh, of 8810 101 street, a resident of Edmonton for the past 31 years, were held Wednesday afternoon from Hainstock and Son's chapel, with Rev. R. J. Burton officiating. Interment followed in the Edmonton cemetery.

Word was received in Edmonton Wednesday of the death at Santa Monica, California, of Mrs. Thomas H. Miller, a resident of Edmonton prior to 1906. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were prominent members of McDougall United church and were well-known in the city. After leaving Edmonton they resided at the coast until 1917. They spent several years in South America, and for the past two years had been living at Santa Monica.

Dr. L. W. Brockington, chairman of the Board of Governors of the CBC, listened to the speech of His Majesty King George at the Quebec luncheon on Wednesday, at a radio installed in the provincial education department. Dr. Brockington was a visitor at the building at the time the broadcast was taking place, and visited the office where the radio was installed and listened in. He stated that he planned to leave here for Vancouver on Wednesday night by airplane and would be back here toward the end of June.

YOUTH JAILED FOR 28 CHARGES HOUSEBREAKING

Two years less one day on each of 28 charges of housebreaking and attempted housebreaking was the sentence given James Colin Merry, 19, by Magistrate A. I. Millar in city police court Wednesday morning. The accused youth pleaded guilty to all of the charges.

The terms are to run concurrently, and also concurrently with a term of six months given Merry on Wednesday by officials of the Alberta Employment Service. This is a decrease over the previous week when the figure was 7,464. Of the total there were 6,620 men and 614 women. Calgary maintained its place as the unemployment centre of the province, registering a total of 3,065, of whom 2,820 were men and 245 women.

With the conviction of Merry, city police believed the majority of the housebreakings that have occurred in Edmonton during the past three months have been solved.

Smuggled Rooster Gives Convocation Big Thrill: Co-Ed Becomes Heroine

There was one male at the Convocation exercises Tuesday afternoon at McDougall Church who simply stole the show even though he did not graduate. And to have heard him crow, one would have thought that he had copped all the prizes.

He was a big white rooster, smuggled into Convocation and sent fluttering and crowing over the blushing faces of pretty co-eds by the Engineering graduates, true to the traditions of their faculty which insist that they stir up some excitement to enliven every convocation.

The rooster certainly did.

Finally a co-ed, seated in an end seat, captured the rooster and pacified him. What was she to do? Hold him for the rest of the afternoon? Graduate with him in her arms? Not a bad idea, as she was a nurse and might begin being a lady with a lamp early in her career.

She had an even better idea. She took him out. There was the real heroine and what a hand she got as she walked out with him. Even President Kerr and the dignitaries on the platform joined in the applause.

Just as the solemn Convocation proceedings were well underway, a loud scream burst from some of the co-eds and everyone in the public gallery rose excitedly to see what the trouble was.

So many people were standing it

SENSE OF POSSESSION

Even some people who own things have no sense of possession. Take an old, delapidated car, for instance—no sense in possessing that.

Possessioness is bad. Some women are very possessive. Men dislike this greatly. That is because all men are possessive.

The love of a good woman is a fine thing to possess, unless your wife hears about it.

Possession is nine tenths of the law unless the other tenth is a guy too big to lick.

Conscience Money

CITY SCHOOLS WILL BE USED ROYALTY VISIT

Citizens To Get Washroom Facilities—Sunday Baseball Talked

City schools that are on the line of march of the Royal procession will be opened for the convenience of the public from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., on June 2, it was decided at a meeting of the property committee of the Edmonton Public School board, Tuesday.

J. McAfee, superintendent of plant, was instructed to employ supervisors for the schools at the rate of 50 cents per hour for men and 40 cents per hour for women. The entrance from the washrooms to other parts of the school will be barricaded so as to protect the school property.

TRAINING HORSES

Major H. P. Rocke, who is directing the training of horses to be used by the 19th Alberta Dragoons for the Royal escort, requested in a conference with School Supt. G. A. McKee that horses be trained on a school campus so that they would become accustomed to the cries and presence of children.

"I am not at all in favor of the idea," Mr. McKee explained, "for we would just be courting a danger that we have no right to assume."

"The superintendent has voiced my sentiments," Chairman George Gleave said. "Why couldn't they do as they do in the old country, and just have a lot of people rattling tin cans and other noisemakers. The effect would be just the same and there would be no danger to our students."

No action was taken on the question.

SUNDAY BASEBALL

A. R. Lawrence, unofficial representative of the residents of the Boyle street area adjacent to the Boyle street ball park, asked the committee that a backstop be put up behind the catcher's box so that balls would stay in the park and not bother the neighbors.

"We have had our share of that park and especially on Sundays. It is used all day then and every evening," he said.

It was decided that the park bleachers, which were condemned as a threat to "life and limb" by City Engineer A. W. Haddow, will be pulled down and the lumber thus obtained salvaged, and advertised for sale.

"At the time you are dealing with this matter of fixing up the park so that it is safe, would you consider adding to your motion that no ball be played on Sunday, for that park is the property of the school board," Mr. Lawrence added.

"I would much rather see my children playing ball on Sunday than rowing on the river," Trustee Gleave answered.

COMMERCIALIZED GAMES

"I mean only the commercialized baseball as played on that day for which a collection is taken," Mr. Lawrence answered.

"The board has no regulations governing the use of its property on Sunday," Secretary Harry Turner said.

Mr. Lawrence will bring a petition signed by the residents of the neighborhood of the ball park asking the board to stop Sunday games.

BISLEY SHOOT IS SHORTENED TO ONE WEEK

LONDON, May 17.—A shortage of personnel and equipment due to Great Britain's vast rearmament drive has impelled authorities to shorten the Imperial Bisley shooting tournament from two weeks to one this summer.

It was announced that men of the territorial army ordinarily on the job will be fully occupied during the summer in training. Tents usually available for the competitors are required also for training camps.

The meet will be held from July 10-16. The King's Prize and other big team matches in which Canadian and other Empire sharpshooters compete will be decided as usual.

NIGHT-TIME SPEED LIMIT ON HIGHWAYS

REGINA, May 17.—A night-time speed limit on Saskatchewan highways of 45 miles an hour was announced Tuesday by government officials. There is no day-time limit but in periods of poor visibility because of dust or fog, the 45-mile-an-hour limit will apply.

Provision for issuing of license papers in colors of white, blue and red went into effect.

Original licenses will be issued on white paper, but after conviction on a traffic charge the next license will be issued on a blue paper, and in case of another conviction on a red paper.

Drivers must have a clear sheet for a year in order to get their licenses converted from a red to a blue, and another year to get the blue converted to a white.

TAIHOKU, Formosa, May 17.—An earthquake of moderate intensity shook the whole island of Formosa yesterday, but early reports indicated there were no casualties and no serious damage.

Students Told To Cherish Mirth And Love Of Friends much to do as all the dog fights had been transferred to the north side in the city hall.

Quoting the technical titles of two masters of science theses, Mr. Brockington jestingly asked what he or Chief Justice Mitchell knew about either of these subjects.

PROPRIETY FORBIDS

He said that loyalty and propriety forbade him to say anything about the Lieutenant-Governor, though he added that outside of Alberta, at least, Hon. Mr. Bowen is believed to have written the cheque if nothing else, of the famous song stating that there is nothing so fine as to be master of one's own house.

Well, continued Mr. Brockington, about the chief justice—the other new graduate of the university—he could be more frank. Neither of them knew anything about the technical theses.

But he added that both would be dinner guests of the Lieutenant-Governor Tuesday night and then they would be in a position to write a supplementary chapter to another thesis listed for a degree. It was called "A study of the economic importance of supplementary feeds in relation to animal nutrition."

Mr. Brockington consoled himself by the remark of "my old friend Sam Jacobs, the witty member of parliament"—that he was glad to see that he and his friends were getting educated by degrees.

FRENCH PROVERB

And he topped his witticisms by quoting the French proverb that the old begin to offer good advice to the young when they are no longer able to set them a bad example.

Loud applause came for a tribute he paid to Dr. A. C. Rutherford, respected chancellor of the university and first premier of the province.

He said he rejoiced that time had dealt so gently and graciously with Mr. Rutherford, and added that he thought this was so because Mr. Rutherford had dealt so graciously and gently with his fellow-men.

Striking a solemn note, Mr. Brockington lauded the parents of graduates who had made sacrifices to enable their children to have better opportunities and advantages than those with which they had faced the battle of life.

Remembrance of this sacrifice, he said, should make the graduates not more proud of themselves but more proud of their parents.

CONVOCATION UNITES

Mr. Brockington said that convocation united three of the finest things in the world: Springtime, youth and Canada.

He had hoped to paint a rhapsody about the beauties of spring—about flowers beginning to peep forth in their shy beauty, birds singing in the fields, the glory of the radiant sunset over the bronzed plains, and the wheat, problem which had just emerged from another dismal session in the house of commons.

There is only one street in Canada. It stretches from sea to sea. It is the king's highway. Upon it all Canadian citizens, whether rich or poor, Catholic, Protestant or Jew, walk as equals. Mr. Brockington said in an appeal for tolerance.

He prayed that nothing would ever be done in this country to impair or destroy the spirit of tolerance upon which the glory of the country depended.

Mr. Brockington quoted lines from Pratt, the Canadian poet, to describe what the spirit of the west signified to him.

Hope was expressed by the speaker that the graduating class would produce at least one poet able to hymn the glory of the western plains, one historian able to catch the spirit of the brave pioneers who followed their vision across the unbroken prairies and wrote their achievements broadly upon the records of Canada.

Final part of Mr. Brockington's speech, set off by numerous quotations, including Macaulay's notable passage in praise of Athens and the delights of reading, consisted of good wishes to the various graduating classes.

He hoped, in the words of Sir William Osler, the famous physician, that the medical graduate would never enter the temple of science as if they were going into a money-changers' temple.

He praised the nurses who would minister in dark city streets and in the lonely places.

He recalled that no scientist had ever sold for personal profit a discovery designed to ameliorate the heritage of stricken humanity.

He called teachers members of "the noblest profession."

He believed that agricultural students could do their part in preventing this land of promise from becoming a distressed area.

NOBLER THINGS

He whispered a warning to law graduates that law was destined for nobler things than to be the handmaiden of big business.

He expected that all who loved books, and he hoped that meant everyone, would never forego the spirit in which authentic books, which are the notations of the human heart, should be studied.

He recalled that Hazlitt refused to envy a wealthy man who owned many paintings; rather should the wealthy man envy Hazlitt's capacity to appreciate them.

A Welsh peasant, loitering on the hills, could say to a passer-by that the valley and estate belonged to the Lord his master, but its beauty to him alone.

That was the spirit in which one should go through life, Mr. Brockington urged, seeking beauty, loving truth, honoring justice and enjoying laughter and the love of friends.

Mr. Brockington asked that the graduates, in whatever profession, spend their days in Alberta, enriching by their talents and their service the life of the community in which they were born and in which they have been educated.

He hoped that in this way a greater day would await Alberta and richer and happier opportunities their children and children's children.

BRITISH, U. S. BLUEJACKETS AT KULANGSU

TOKYO, May 17—Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported from the Chinese port of Amoy today that British and United States bluejackets had landed at Amoy's international settlement on Kulangsu Island.

Vice Admiral Sir Percy Noble, commander-in-chief of Britain's China naval station, who arrived at Amoy on the cruiser Birmingham, was reported to have postponed his scheduled departure for Foochow and Shanghai in order to watch developments in Kulangsu. There are now four British and two U. S. warships at Kulangsu.

ROBERT BOWERS MAY BE RUNNER WORLD'S FAIR

Robert Bowers, who attracted wide attention when he raced Mrs. E. O. Greening's "My Prince" at the exhibition grounds track last April, may engage in a six-day endurance race with Sammy Richman, of C. G. Pyle bunion derby fame at the New York world's fair, the veteran runner stated Tuesday. Fair officials are negotiating with the Edmonton war veteran.

Richman is claimant to the world's six-day endurance record, while Bowers claims the 10-mile record with a time of 16 hours and 08 minutes.

Bowers, who is employed at the Oliver mental institute, has been training faithfully and, regardless of whether the New York race materializes or not, he plans to make an attack on his present 100-mile record here in the near future.

Three To Attend Youth Conference

A rally in support of the international youth conference to be held in Amsterdam in July was held in First Presbyterian church Monday with Rev. Ross K. Cameron presiding. Three delegates from Edmonton, Garth Walker, Jerry Hitchinson and Edward Miller, will attend. Mr. Walker expressed the hope that the conference would play a part in the preparation of a united front for Christianity throughout the world.

HYDRO POWER TIE-UP WILL BE DISCUSSED

the company interchanging power so that they would not need to expand their plants to take care of increased demands until about 1949. If the city carries on alone it will need to buy a new generator likely in 1941.

INDEPENDENT EXPERT

Ald. Ogilvie suggested that, as commissioners appeared to have difficulty in deciding on the merits of the company's proposals as against the submissions of R. G. Watson, city power plant superintendent, an independent expert be engaged to guide the committee.

The committee agreed to a suggestion by Ald. Knott that at the present stage of discussion it would not be necessary to engage an outside man.

Ald. Ogilvie proposed that the committee use for guidance the general principles set out in a report by Prof. A. G. Christie, who stated that the ideal power production plan for Alberta was hydro power in summer supplanted by steam power in winter.

20-YEAR RECORD

Commissioner R. J. Gibb pointed out to the committee that figures submitted by Mr. Thompson and Mr. Watson disagreed. Mr. Watson said that the company's figures were based on records of the past 20 years, while his own were calculated on the basis more efficient methods in the city plant.

The company estimated a saving of $105,000 a year through interconnection and Mr. Watson placed it at $28,486. With inter-connection, the city would use 30,000 tons less coal a year over the next 11 years, Mr. Watson said.

"The city is in a slightly different position from a private company," Commissioner Gibb said. "If we make a saving it will mean that we use less coal and we may have to keep the miners on relief."

"There is nothing hard and fast about the proposals we have made," said Mr. Thompson. "They were submitted as a basis of discussion and we may be able to arrive at better terms. We believe that there will be a saving to both the city and the company in an interchange."

To a suggestion by Ald. Patterson, Mr. Thompson said it would be possible to arrive at an agreement whereby the city "would not be obliged to buy any power from the company." He promised to outline such a plan in general terms at the next meeting.

First Shipment Stock Goes North on N.A.R.: Some Billed to Arctic

First movement of livestock into the far north in any quantity this year was made on Tuesday when the first carload to Fort McMurray had a shipment of 40 steers, four milk cows, ten head of horses, 20 hogs, ten lambs and 200 chickens consigned to various places in the North West Territories. Some of the steers will be shipped as far north as Aklavik when navigation opens on the Mackenzie.

The animals were shipped north by M. L. "Mickey" Ryan of Ryan Bros. Transportation Co. All the steers have been fattened on the Ryan farm on the St. Albert Trail and are in first class condition.

The hogs, lambs and horses and the 200 chickens are going to Ryan's Halfway House on the Fitzgerald-Smith portage. Two of the milk cows will also go to the Halfway house to provide fresh milk for the Ryan crews this summer, while another of the cows goes to Fort Smith and the fourth to Fort Norman. The steers will be held at Fort Smith until navigation opens and the sheep boats go down north.

Fresh feed in Aklavik and other far northern points is a rarity and only made possible through the enterprise of Mickey Ryan.

Moral Rearmament Group Is Planning Meet Here May 18

To plan far the active launching of a Moral Rearmament Week in Edmonton from May 27 to June 2 in order to bring the movement to each citizen and visitor who will be in Edmonton during the period of the Royal visit, a meeting of leading citizens who are interested has been called for Thursday, May 18 at the Corona hotel here. The meeting is called for 8 p.m. Mayor John W. Fry has promised full cooperation and will personally open the event with a message to be broadcast over the radio.

Those behind the movement feel that the opportunity for making moral rearmament the unifying spirit of Canada will never be better than during the Royal visit week, and plans will be laid accordingly.

During the past few months moral rearmament has spread over Great Britain and many continental countries and has been endorsed by the leading statesmen of the British Empire and of Europe. At the present time it is being enthusiastically received in eastern Canada and the United States.

Group To Oppose Cadet Training

A delegation from the Edmonton youth council will oppose the suggested resumption of voluntary cadet training in city schools scheduled to come up for discussion at the next Tuesday's meeting of the Edmonton public school board, according to Helmer Huber, a member of the executive of the council. At the last meeting of the board, Trustee Gordon Gleave gave notice of motion he would move for resumption of cadet training abolished in city schools some years ago.

Highlanders To Parade Sunday

A parade through the downtown section of the city next Sunday to the legislative buildings grounds will be one of the features of a Highland open air service to be held here Sunday as a curtain raiser to annual Highland games which will be staged at Clarke Stadium on May 24. Four city bands, the 49th Battalion, C.M.R. pipe band and the Salvation Army band will take part in the service. Entries for the Highland games, comprising field, track and cycling events, dancing and piping will close Wednesday.

Barn Damaged

Fire of undetermined origin caused damage estimated at $150 when it swept through a barn owned by E. McCallum, 13138 83 street, Tuesday.

SOCRED GROUP URGES USE OF M'MURRAY SAND

Requesting the cooperation of the provincial government and Edmonton city council in recommending that public authorities in Alberta make full use of Alberta's voluminous tar sands at Fort McMurray for road surfacing where the cost of same compares favorably with the cost of materials at present used for this purpose members of Zone 7 Assembly, comprising nine Social Credit groups in Edmonton, have forwarded a resolution to the provincial government.

The resolution points out that the McMurray tar sands are stated by competent authorities to be ideal for use in paving and road surfacing and that money provided by the taxpayers of Alberta for these purposes should be used to develop an Alberta industry instead of being expended for foreign materials. The development of such an industry, it is stated in the resolution, would provide much employment for residents of the province as well as creating new wealth in Alberta.

Motorman Says Car Was Stopped

Referring to a statement appearing in The Edmonton Bulletin Tuesday to the effect that he had stopped his tram and immediately rendered assistance to Mrs. F. J. Carney of 10052 112 street, who was struck by a car as she stepped from a street car at 112 street and Jasper Monday, Motorman George Armitage stated that the street car was already stopped and that it had not started up again before the woman was struck by the car. Motorman Armitage explained he had stepped from his tram to render the woman assistance.

Looking Them Over

Is Terry Tough? Tebo Talks The How-Come

AS THE fatal day of June 1 draws near, the date on which either Eddie Wenstob or Terry Tiger Warrington will fade from the Canadian big time fight picture, there appears to be a growing number of lads about town who believe that the above date will be journey's end for Wenstob. In fact I understand that some of the boys are so profoundly convinced of this that they will even wager you money that Warrington will win by a knockout.

Terry, the Tiger, is an unknown quantity here. His record is mighty impressive though. He has been winning regularly against a tough class of fighters in the eastern States and Canada—and the majority of his wins have been by knockouts.

Jack Tebo of Fairview is the only person in these parts who can give you the real low-down on Warrington. Tebo fought Warrington at Bangor, Maine, in October of 1937. The record books credit Terry with a knockout victory in the fourth round, but Tebo swears that the actual situation was a bit different.

Tebo was in New York at the time, Manager Jack Carnahan having sent him there for sharpening up under the management of pastes who later proved to be better at sharpshooting than at sharpening up a fighter. Tebo was ordered to go to Bangor to "fight a local chump". Tebo had a broken bone in his hand that was just healing at the time. In fact, it had just come out of the cast. He protested against a fight at that time, but his handlers insisted it was just an exhibition affair, "Go in there and box a few rounds," they told him. "It's only some local cut-up and you won't get hurt. Besides, where do you think the money is coming from to keep you eating if you don't fight?"

One of Tebo's failings is that he likes to eat three squares each day. In fact he is not averse to five or six squares if the food and cooking is good. He accordingly went to Bangor. Just before he climbed into the ring he found out that the "local chump" was Tiger Terry Warrington. Maine Tebo promptly protested to his handlers, but they threatened him with everything from the electric chair to suspension by the N.B.A. if he did not go through with it.

He got along fine until near the end of the third round by using only his left. Then he forgot and let his right go. It landed on Terry's noggin. Tebo got a lot of pain that made him see stars. By the time the bell rang, his hand was swollen up until it was nearly breaking the bandages.

Just Another of Those Affairs

WHEN he went to his corner he told his handlers he couldn't continue, but they insisted. Toward the end of the fourth, Warrington clipped him one that knocked him down. He was ready to get up by the time the count reached four and decided that under the circumstances it was nothing short of folly. He was accordingly counted out.

It was just another of those affairs that appear to be fight common in the eastern States. Tebo attaches no blame to Warrington or his management for it. The blame rests on the men who were handling him, Tebo. They just couldn't pass up a chance to grab off some money regardless of what shape Tebo was in or what injury he might receive. If I remember rightly, Tebo took me to Bangor to get a take-out as the payoff from his handlers. Needless to say that when Jack Carnahan heard of this he soon severed connections with these sharpshooters.

He Is No Set-Up

HOWEVER the above does not mean that Warrington has built up his reputation on set-up fights. He didn't exert know about the condition of Tebo's payoff mitt. Neither did his manager. It was merely a small routine fight for them staged at some open air fistic if I remember correctly.

"Warrington's plenty good," Tebo told me last fall. "He can box and he can hit. I'm not bragging, but I'm sure that he can't knock me out if I'm right, and I think I can beat him. Wenstob is smart enough, I think, to protect himself against Warrington—but he'd better not make any mistakes. That guy can really lay the leather on you. If Wenstob could snap over a kayoe punch, I think he'd have a fifty-fifty chance of beating Warrington. If they ever meet, it should be a honey of a fight."

And that, folks, is the best advance dope that can be produced on the coming Dominion championship battle. Tebo fought them both. He ought to know.

ABUNDANCE OF SUPER STEEDS IN EARLY 1939

Year of "Greatest Horses" Seen by McLemore as Johnstown Loses

By HENRY McLEMORE

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

NEW YORK, May 17—"The way things are going now 1939 is likely to be remembered as the year that produced several pastures full of "greatest horses of all time."

Only a little more than a week ago, in Louisville, I, and most of my colleagues, sprang to our typewriters and wrote that Johnstown was the greatest horse that ever lived. We crowned him, and unfavorably, to Napoleon, the Taj Mahal by Moonlight, Man o' War, the first printing press, A. Lincoln, G. Washington, and anything else that popped into our repertorial minds.

KNEW A SUPER-HORSE

Practically as one man we predicted that before summer's leaves were burned, Johnstown would have made horse history and thrust himself prominently into the forefront of 1940 presidential possibilities. Watching him win the Derby by eight lengths we went to great lengths to let our public know that we knew a super-horse when we saw one.

Now, another week has come, and I can't even remember how to spell that fool horse's name that won the Derby. Is it Johnston? Jahnsten? Johnson? Darn if I know. All I can think of is the great and super-horse of all time —Challedon.

Those are the greatest horse I ever saw. And I think the time I would compare him, not unfavorably, to Napoleon, the Taj Mahal by Moonlight, and each thing else that popped into my repertorial mind. I saw him win the Preakness at Baltimore last Saturday, a race which saw the marvelous were a greatest horse finish next to last.

EXPECTS ANOTHER

I don't know what horse I'll be writing about next week, but it would not surprise me at all to have another super-horse come popping from the mists.

The trouble with our super-horses today is that they are defensively specialists. They can be catalogued first race distorters. Fast track specialists. Muddy track specialists. Six furlong specialists. Mile specialists. And, almost as if they had drawn up a code of ethics, each one of these specialists will infringe upon the other one's field. Johnstown makes his hay money when he sun shines. Challedon saves up his speed for a rainy day.

JUST WHO CAN SAY?

Who can say that one is greater than the other? They are both fine horses, particular fields, and under the weatherman can figure out a day that is dry and wet at the same time no one will be able to figure out how these two horses compare. Johnstown appeared very uncomfortable in the mud at Baldimore. A tremendously long, free strider on dry footing, he gave the impression of mincing — like a woman crossing a wet street—in the mud at the Preakness. He had shortened his stride almost to a chop at the mile, and from that point on went completely to pieces.

Challedon revelled in the goo. A close knit runner, with a short stride, he seemed to bite through the slippery isposoil to the firm, solid base of the track.

The truth is—and it hurts me to say it, after all the fulsome praise I have lavished on Johnstown and Challedon—the truth is, neither one is really great. The really great ones go on any kind of track, on any kind of day, and I didn't have to go and trim the wicks of the lamps I would compare the really great horses of history, and not unfavorably, to Napoleon by Moonlight, G. Washington and A. Lincoln, etc.

Comeback King Happy

The "comeback king" in jockey ranks, Don Meade, is seen, left, after the biggest triumph he has yet scored, as he looks up at Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, president of the Maryland Jockey Club, as presentation of the Dixie Cup was made following Meade's win aboard Sir Damion in the $20,000 added Dixie Handicap. Suspended a few years ago in Florida, Meade was reinstated there in the beginning of the year and is gradually winning reinstatement elsewhere, as well as winning enough races to put him among the continent's leading riders.

Warrington Predicts Win Here Over Eddie Wenstob

NEW YORK, May 17.—Dusky Terry Warrington sped through five hard rounds in a Broadway gymnasium Tuesday without mussing his hair, then predicted he would make good his claims to the Canadian boxing titles when he meets Eddie Wenstob in his Edmonton home town June 1.

Warrington, negro heller from Liverpool, N.S., who claims the Canadian heavyweight and light-heavy titles, slugged three rounds with Al McCoy, Boston French Canadian, and later sharpened his speed in two rounds with Tommy Tucker of New York.

"Terry never looked better," said his manager Bobby North, as the Nova Scotian shuffled around the gym ring. He pointed out that Warrington hasn't fought since early April and said the rest "made him sharper than ever."

Warrington scaled 178 after the workout. North plans daily training sessions until they leave for Edmonton for the 15-rounder against Wenston

Boosters Continue Drive For New Members

CONTINUING their drive for new members, the membership committee of the Edmonton Sports Boosier Club reported real progress in their drive on Tuesday night and expectations were that this year's total will soon surpass the 1938 figure.

In addition to results being obtained from the personal canvas of local business and professional men, many citizens were calling in at the office of Business Manager Leroy Goldsworthy at 207 Agency Building to sign up. Anyone who has not yet joined the club is invited to call at the office at any time.

A rousing "pep" rally will be held by the committee on Thursday night to which all Booster members are invited. Place and time of this affair will be announced in tomorrow's Bulletin.

No less than 35 aspiring members for this year's Eskimo football team were on hand at the second of the spring training workout at Clarke Stadium last night and were put through their paces by Coach Boo Fritz, assisted by Eddie O'Brien.

These practices will be held nightly at the Stadium, starting at 6:30 o'clock, and Coach Bob Fritz is anxious to have as many candidates as possible on hand.

It is expected that Russ Wile, new import from Minnesota, will reach the city some time today and will be ready to get into uniform tomorrow.

East Swordsman Is Finals Favorite

WINNIPEG, May 17.—George Tully of Montreal, Canada's leading swordsman, is favored to hold his triple crowns in the foils, sabre and dueling swords at the dominion fencing championships. He will appear in all three finals tonight.

In dueling swords last night Jack Sicter of Winnipeg went through six bouts without a loss, Tully won five and in the sixth against George Siebert, Winnipeg, a double hit was scored, each counting a half to leave the score: Siebert four and one-half and Tully five and one-half.

Bob Coleman, of Regina, Saskatchewan champion and Ted Potter of Winnipeg finished with three wins and three losses each. In the finals Tully meets Sector; Coleman duels against Siebert and Ted Potter meets his brother Ken, a star Winnipeg swordsman.

Beat West-Enders By Margin of 5-1

MAPLE LEAF ATHLETIC CLUB scored its third straight triumph and remained undefeated in the Junior Box Lacrosse League. The Leaflets turned back West-End's Reds last night at the Alberta Avenue grounds by a 5-1 score.

Maple Leafs took a wide lead in the first quarter. Two goals by Albert Newsome, assisted by W. Dutchak and B. Jackson paced the Leafs into a lead they never lost.

Jackson's tally in the second quarter boosted the Leaf lead to 3-0. Jackson netted his tally without assistance.

Reds made their only tally in the third quarter as Norman McCallum took McKenzie's pass but Leafs came right back and matched the Reds' goal as Pringle sent home Harris' pass just before the quarter ended.

COMPLETE SCORE

Leafs completed their score in the fourth quarter while the Reds were held scoreless. Walter Dutchak did the scoring in this quarter for the Leafs' fifth and final goal.

Reds dampened the game, but the players heeded not the light downfall and continued to show some clever passing and held a fairly fast pace.

Six penalties were called, and the Leafs penalized the "bad boys" as they took five of the six sentences.

LINEUPS

Maple Leafs: Malone, Douglas, Irwin, Young, Harvie, Newsome, J. Dutchak, Jackson, Pringle, Harris, Sharum, Coffin.

West-End Reds: D. McCallum, Rollers, Marshall, Nunn, Clavett, Hogan, Simpson, Stevenson, Webb, McKinley, McKenzie, McCallum.

SCONA ROYALS PLAY RANGERS TILT TONIGHT

Scona Royals will face the sturdy Eastwood Rangers this evening in a scheduled game of the Junior Soccer League. The kickoff is timed for 6:30 at Clarke stadium and the teams are asked to be at the stadium no later than 6:15 p.m.

Junior soccer has taken a firm hold among the soccer fraternity here. The games have been fastly fairly clever and always keenly contested. The young men of the field clubs have proven fairly good "gate" attractions for their spirited play has given soccer fans everything desired.

The following Ranger players will take the field: Ward, Dalziel, McAuley, Griffin, McAuley, Ness, Skidmore, Campbell, Smart, Ainslie, Martiniuk, Barber and Whelpley.

CALGARY SIGNS TWO GRID STARS

CALGARY, May 17. — Bud Weaver and Steve McKenzie, former University of Saskatchewan football players, have been signed for the 1939 season by the Calgary Bronks, football officials announced here last night. Both players took up residence in Calgary Tuesday.

Although not signed, Jack Ferguson, Victoria boy who formerly played with the University of Oregon, also arrived in Calgary Tuesday and was considered a likely prospect for the 1939 Bronk squad.

PEDEN BOTHERS LEAD IN SPRINTS

NEW YORK, May 17.—Ten surviving teams in New York's 65th six-day bike race at Madison Square Garden started the second day with seven pairs tied in mileage for first place.

The Victoria brothers, Torchy and Doug Peden had an edge in sprint points at 1 a.m. EDT over Jules Audy of Montreal and Cecil Yates, Gerard Debaets and Fred Ottevaere, Alvaro Georgetti and Cesar Moretti, Jerry Hudman and Eddie Testa, and Tino Reboli and Andre Debacker.

The field was officially reduced to 19 at midnight when Charley Vaccaro was dropped from the list. His partner, Charley Bergna was injured in an afternoon spill.

Stern Battle Awaits Grads Here Tonight

Tonight the Edmonton Grads meet the Cleveland Nokolds in the third game of their best of five series for the Underwood trophy, emblematic of the women's international basketball championship. The game is timed for 8:30 p.m. at the Arena.

With two straight victories already chalked up, the Grads have hopes of scoring a three-straight defence of their international honors. Although beaten 61-32 in the first game, Cleveland Nokolds came back brilliantly and were just edged out by the Grads in the second tilt. Coach Flora Sanders believes that her Nokolds can make good tonight, however, and perhaps force the series to the full five games. Her team took one game from the Grads last year and she is confident that her club is stronger now than it was then.

Saturday night's game was one of the best of the current season and tonight's tilt promises to be one that shouldn't be missed by those who like close, fast and clever basketball.

Dummy of Shore World Fair Card

BOSTON, May 17.—Eddie Shore is eager to get back to Edmonton and see about his wheat but he can't go until the New York World Fair contractors catch up with their work. When that exposition's sport building is completed, the Stanley cup will be placed on exhibition in front of a dummy wearing Eddie's famous No. 2 uniform. "If they're going to make a dummy out of me, they'd better do a good job," Eddie warns.

BILLY WEIR HURLS NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME

Only 250 Paying Fans Out to See Ex-Boston Ace On Mound

TORONTO, May 17.—Southpaw Bill Weir pitched himself back into consideration for a big-league job Tuesday with the young baseball season's first no-hit, no-run game, an 8-0 shutout scored by Toronto Maple Leafs over Baltimore Orioles.

Only 250 paying fans were on hand to see the erstwhile sore-armed southpaw, here on option from Boston Bees of the National League, pitch his way into the headlines. Thirty-one men faced him. Four drew walks, one sacrificed and one was awarded first base because of Catcher Sam Harshany's interference. Weir fanned six.

It was the second victory in four tries for the 28-year-old Weir. His other, incidentally, was a 3-0 shutout over Newark. Bears. Billy, playing his first season in the International, was idle most of last year after his arm gave out early in the race.

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON

LOUIS XVII—THE POSTHUMCUS KING: Together with his father, Louis XVI, and other members of the French Royal family, the Dauphin was imprisoned by Revolutionists in 1791. The Royalists recognized the imprisoned boy as King Louis XVII when his father was guillotined, but he died in prison on June 8, 1795. The defeat of Napoleon in 1814 paved the way for the restoration of the Empire, and to maintain the continuity of the Bourbon line in succession to the throne, Louis XVII was acknowledged as King of France, so his uncle could assume the title of Louis XVIII. MICE IN ADDING MACHINE: When an adding machine purchased by a customer of R. W. Pierce, Greenville, Tenn., failed to "clear" after compiling totals, it was taken back for repair. Then it was discovered that six large mice and 16 baby mice had a nest inside it.

"FAREWELL to SPORT" by PAUL GALLICO

The Barbed Color Line

EACH year when I have taken my Golden Gloves amateur boxing teams to Chicago for the big Inter-City bouts, I have dreaded the moment on the train when I should have to take the six or seven colored members of the squad aside in a little group—we travelled as a mixed family, black and white, perfectly happy, because we always had an entire special train to ourselves—and to say to them: "Look here, when we get to Chicago, why—ah—the Tribune has made arrangements for the team to put up at a private club—you know how it is, and, ah—as we are guests of the Tribune, we must go where they put us" (it would have been even stricter in any Chicago hotel); "and so we have, ah—made arrangements for you all to live together in the colored Y.M.C.A. downtown, where you will be well looked after. You will come up to the club every afternoon and train with the team in the club gymnasium. They, ah—have set aside a special elevator which will bring you right up to the dressing rooms. You get to it from the rear" (past the ash-cans and garbage-cans, the boiler-room and sub-cellar passageways), "and of course we'll have someone looking out for you."

I have always been waiting for one of them to say: "Look here, Mr. Gallico. We're good enough to be on your team and fight for your paper against Chicago and make a lot of money for your Athletic Association. We were good enough to enter your tournament and win it. Then why aren't we good enough to live with the team?"

I shouldn't have had an answer. I suppose there is one, but I doubt whether it would have satisfied either them or me. I never heard the direct question, with the implication that they were ready to quit unless granted rights equal to those they had enjoyed in the ring as members of the New York team, however.

EASY WAY OUT

They took the half loaf. When there were indications of trouble they could usually be offset with an appeal to their never-failing good nature and an indication of my own helplessness in the situation, a helplessness no doubt born of wishing to get out of an unpleasant situation as quickly as possible with the least effort. There was little time or inclination to crusade. The main thing was to hold together a team of many races, get them into the ring in fighting shape, and fulfill the obligations to the ticket-holders and that, indirectly, to my employers.

I do not bring any particular knowledge or incisive philosophy to this problem, beyond a frequently outraged sense of justice. To the Negro-haters' eternal question: "But do you want to sit down at table with a nigger and invite him into your home?" I have no particular answer. I have sat down to dinner with some very strange people and races without coming to grief. If it were a matter of compulsion, I might be upset, not by the company, but by the compulsion. As it is a matter of choice, I keep to the company of my own kind.

But I have always felt that where we make demands upon the Negro and exploit him as we do in sport, there is no longer any choice possible. When I send a boy out to the amateur wars to fight—indirectly, for the glory and better condition of my nails—he is an equal and entitled to the considerations of an equal, or, at least, to the same treatment accorded to similarly exploited white brothers.

Once I saw a human heart broken. True, it was encased in a brown skin and therefore did not count, even though its owner walked, talked, and behaved like a man. I had a little cafe-au-lait-tinted lightweight on one of my Golden Gloves boxing teams. He had a Spanish name and was to all intents and purposes a Puerto Rican. In New York he was accepted as a white member of the team and lived with the white boys at the first-class hotel where we kept our squad in training for the Chicago bouts.

When we reached Chicago, the Negro members of the team were as usual weeded out and with their colored trainer packed into a couple of cabs and shipped off to the colored Y. We took the rest of the team to the huge athletic club where we were scheduled to be put up. The boys registered, were assigned to their rooms, and we began to plan the routine training and amusement up in the headquarters suite. The telephone bell rang. It was the manager of the club asking for me. He said: "I am sorry, Mr. Gallico, but one of the boys you have registered here is colored. You will have to get him out of here."

"But," I protested, "he's a Puerto Rican. He isn't a Negro. He was accepted with the white boys in the Blank Hotel in New York."

He said: "I am very sorry, but we don't make any distinctions here. This is a private club" (it was a hotel-athletic club), "and all colored men are alike to us here in Chicago. That boy cannot remain here."

I still curl with shame when I look back upon the incident. I didn't have the backbone to yank the whole team out of the place and I didn't have the courage to break the news to the kid, but sent one of the trainers to do it. Eventually I got up the nerve to go downstairs and talk to the boy. It was like taking a bottle away from a carriage baby and then beating him over the head with it for good measure.

He spent one night with the Negroes down at the Y. The next day I had to put him on a train and send him home. He could live neither with white man nor with black. The entire team was no good after that. Both white and black boys resented the incident bitterly, and with all justice. We grown-ups running the show must have looked a pretty sickly lot. We were, too. Whether in New York he had lived as white or as black and reached out for something he had had before, I never found out. He was a good fighter, too. I have never heard of him since.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Dizzy Dean came back with a bang Tuesday, but he didn't get into the ball game in time to stop the unpredictable Dodgers of Brooklyn from walloping the Cubs 12-2.

Whitey Wyatt, the Brooklyns new righthander, scored his fourth straight win, a four-hitter. Cookie Lavagetto paced the Dodgers' 16-hit attack, clouting a homer and two singles and driving in four runs. Dolph Camilli hit his sixth homer of the year.

Mayerthorpe Wins Over Whitecourt

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WHITECOURT, May 17.—Whitecourt junior ball team took the short end of a 14-7 decision in a game here with the Mayerthorpe junior squad.

The game was well played throughout with the winning team getting the jump in the early innings. The locals several times threatened to overcome the opposing lead but just couldn't click in the pinches. Both teams looked good for the earliness of the season.

TILDEN CLAIMS BUDGE PERFECT

LONDON, May 17.—Don Budge, the world's foremost tennis player, was called "perfect" Tuesday by none other than Bill Tilden.

After an exhibition match which opened a three-day professional tourney at Wembley Stadium Tilden said simply, "He's perfect."

Budge routed the former champion 6-2, 6-2 in their first meeting. It was Budge's first professional appearance on an English court. Budge's touring partner, Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Cal., defeated Hans Nusslein of Germany, 3-7, 6-3, 6-4.

Horses Record Fast Times Prepping For King's Plate

TORONTO, May 17.—Arduous conditioning grind forced on the 13 thoroughbreds expected to start in the 80th running of the King's Plate, May 22, tapered Tuesday to mere breezes. Preliminary training preparations for the mile-and-a-furlong gallop before the King and Queen at Woodbine Park have been completed.

Medway Stable's Millus was tested over a mile without blinkers. He covered the first quarter in :36, the half-mile in :58 3-5, swept past the six-furlong pole in 1:20 2-5 and was pulled after going the mile in 1:43 3-5.

Harry Giddings' Sea General, installed favorite to capture the King's 50 Guineas and the big slice of a $10,000 added purse, was given a brisk breeze over five furlongs. Tony Pascuma held the big gelding well in hand, passing the half-mark in 49 2-5 and the five-furlongs in 1:03.

Fear the Parkwood Stable of Oshawa would not be represented in the historic event appeared dispelled after Frank Gilpin breezed Skyrunner over a mile in 1:47 2-5.

Jack Thorpe, trainer for the Seagram Stable of Waterloo, sent Sargasos and Young Man out together. Young Man pulled up looking sore after a half-mile while Sargasos was pulled up after going six furlongs in 1:16.

Don's in Europe Now

Having his passport examined is J. Donald Budge, dominant in amateur tennis ranks for a few years, and this past year too good for the touring pro game, seen as he arrived in Europe with the rest of the pro racquet performers. As can be seen, he is well-stocked with weapons.

Nick Schmeling Makes Mat Debut Here Friday

NICK SCHMELING, a newcomer here, will make his wrestling debut at the Memorial Hall Friday night, matched against the popular Soldier Thomas in the semi-main bout. This will be the feature supporting bout to the loudly acclaimed joust between Pat O'Dowdy and Dandy Dizzy Davis.

And speaking of the main event, Pat O'Dowdy has few fears as he faces Champion Dandy Dizzy Davis. O'Dowdy states Friday's bout will be on a more even basis. In the tourney finals O'Dowdy was forced to wrestle in two bouts before he met Davis, who only wrestled a very easy affair and then drew a bye into the final bracket.

Thus O'Dowdy says his chances are more even, and adds he will take Davis in the cleaners for a handsome polishing.

Nick Schmeling is a cousin to Germany's hard-hitting Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxer. Nick comes here with a very good reputation as a fast and clever wrestler and with Soldier Thomas he should produce plenty of class.

More details will be announced in tomorrow's paper.

The starting gong will ring out at 8:45 sharp.

37-GOAL SQUAD WINS POLO GAME

NEW YORK, May 17.—A 37-goal United States polo team led by veteran Tommy Hitchcock Tuesday defeated a 29-goal British and United States combination 8-5 as trials continued for the international cup series starting June 4.

Mike Phipps was unable to play with Hitchcock's team because of a sprained wrist, so the 40-goal "dream team" could not take the field as a unit. Elbridge Gerry, a seven-goal player, took Phipps' place alongside Cecil Smith and Hitchcock, with Stewart Iglehart as back. Hesketh Hughes and John Lakin, British substitute players, and Winston Guest and Raymond Guest made up the losing team.

FIVE PERFECT SCORES SHOT IN GUN MEET

Class Double "A" Snipers Bunched At Top—Class Single "A" Is Next

Five marksmen made perfect scores last night in the Edmonton Gun Club shoot with class double "A" marksmen closely bunched.

Four double "A" men were tied for the spoons. Bert Potter, W. C. Davis, Dick Potter and L. J. Petry were the marksmen with 25 in the top class while Dick Potter also aimed his perfect 25 in the single "A" class.

Class "B" marksmen were a little below form and the best was a 21 score. Class "C" snipers were well up, however, and L. E. Wise and G. R. Williams each bust the birdies for a 24 score, one off perfect.

Weekly gold buttons were won by a team composed of Bert Potter, Dick Potter, W. Majeau, K. Karpiuk and W. A. Thomson with the very good score of 111 out of 125.

Class AA—Bert Potter, 25; W. C. Davis, 25; Dick Potter, 25; F. P. Petry, 25; W. E. Madge, 24; Col. P. E. Bowen, 23; P. Currie, 23; N. T. Miller, 23; H. E. Brown, 21; F. Tull, 21.

Class A—Dick Potter, 25; A. C. Anderson, 22.

Class B—W. Majeau, 21; W. H. Tait, 21; W. A. Thomson, 20.

MONTREAL, May 17.—A team of Scottish soccer stars opened its North American tour here last night with a sparkling 9-0 victory over a picked Montreal squad.

Representing the Scottish Football Association, the visitors—all professionals—before the game in "tip-top" shape—gave a brilliant exhibition.

LINEUP

Montreal: Bates, Ryrie, White, FitzPatrick, Ford, McLean, B. Castonguay, Sutherland, Turley, Chambers, M. Castonguay.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. J. Knoll of Vermilion, Mrs. Zoe Turnbull of Big Valley, Mrs. R. P. Douglas of Calgary; three sons, Urban of Trail, B.C., Allan of Peterborough, Ont., and Leonard of London, England.

B.C. Announces Huge Scheme For Training Of Unemployed Men

VICTORIA, May 17.—The British Columbia and federal governments this year will offer the most comprehensive plan yet attempted for training of young men, rehabilitation of single homeless returned soldiers, and assistance for unemployed single men, according to Hon. George S. Pearson.

The minister of labor Tuesday announced details of a scheme to provide for three times as many men as last summer.

Worked out by the two governments, and, in most respects, financed jointly by them, the program is divided into six different classifications:

1—Mining training projects, already under way, which will give experience to about 200 young men between 19 and 25 years of age, in elementary mining.

2—A forestry training scheme to train 300 men between 18 and 25 years of age in forestry work.

These two training classifications have been carried on for several years).

3—A new forestry scheme which will put 500 young men to work conserving and developing provincial forest resources.

4—A special rehabilitation project for single homeless returned soldiers up to 50 years of age. This will be placed in camps similar to the forest camps.

5—A special plan for other single homeless men who have shown they cannot get work. They too, will be placed in special camps.

6—A forestry scheme in national parks financed solely by the Dominion government to provide work for about 60 men in British Columbia.

Outside of special projects for single homeless unemployed, the program will take care of 1,000 young men in forestry and other training plans.

ADEQUATE PROGRAM

The minister said he feels the program as now laid down should deal adequately this summer with the training of young men and with the transient unemployed situation.

"Project to be operated in national parks by the federal government will take only 60 men in British Columbia, because of the limited national park area in the province, but in other provinces projects of a substantial nature will be operated.

"The federal program operated across Canada will make it unnecessary for young men to travel from province to province in search of assistance and young men having recently arrived from other provinces will not be eligible for relief in this province," he said.

Dies At Lacombe

Resident of the Lacombe district since 1913, J. L. Bell, 64, died at his home 10 miles north of Lacombe Saturday night. Surviving are his wife, two daughters, Miss Helen Booth, Kinsmen Club nurse in Edmonton, and Mrs. W. Henderson of Lacombe; two sons in Sioux City, Iowa.

NAZI AIMS NOT HONORABLE SAYS LECTURER HERE

Germany would not covet Denmark if her intentions to the rest of Poland were honorable, said Dr. Michael A. Heilperin of Warsaw, Poland, in an interview here Tuesday.

Here to address a meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, Dr. Heilperin, lecturer left Tuesday night to speak in Saskatoon.

Poland allows the German majority in the city of Danzig full freedom, so there is no need of having an agitation stirred up about it unless Germany wants to thrust at the heart of Poland in a desire to subjugate it, he declared.

Further, the rest of Poland is of more importance to Danzig, which cannot live without the hinterland of Poland, whereas Poland has another port which she may use, if compelled to do so.

Fear is felt in Poland that Danzig might be converted into a powerful base for the operation of military attacks against Poland, he declared.

TWO BODIES ARE RECOVERED FROM RIVER'S WATERS

Bodies of Alphonse and Rudolph Prach, two of three Beverly boys who were drowned a week ago last Friday when their boat upset in the North Saskatchewan river opposite 36 street, were taken from the river near Clover Bar shortly after 3 p.m. Tuesday evening by Royal Canadian Mounted Police who have been keeping watch.

Body of the third victim, Jack Steinberg, 16, 3827 111 avenue, is still unrecovered. The two Prach boys were brothers and sons of Adolph Prach of 12135 48 street.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Howard and McBride.

Gymnasts Will Hold Conference

Fred Youmans, physical director of the Y.M.C.A., George Mundell, Edmonton; Rutherford, Cedric Ward and Thomas Cheng will represent Edmonton at the annual conference of prairie province secretaries of the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. to be held next weekend at Winnipeg. About 125 delegates are expected to attend the conference.

Ordination

Two graduates of St. Stephen's College, Sinclair Reike of this city and C. Reeves, Lacombe, will be ordained at the annual conference of the United Church of Canada at Calgary, May 26.

C. E. LEE TO CONTEST SEAT C.C.F. PARTY

Nominated As Candidate For East Edmonton Federal Riding

Clifford E. Lee, president of the Edmonton central council of the C.C.F., was nominated Tuesday night at a party convention in the Masonic Temple to contest the East Edmonton seat in the next federal election.

Only other person to contest the convention was Hugh Critchlow of the Norwood C.C.F. club, who on being defeated, moved that Mr. Lee's nomination be made unanimous.

Originally announced as a dual nominating convention to pick a candidates for West as well as East Edmonton, but no candidate was chosen for West Edmonton as the party decided to carry on further organization work in the rural part of the constituency.

MILLER WILLING

No definite date has yet been fixed for the holding of the West Edmonton convention, but W. H. Miller, president of the Edmonton C.C.F. constituency council, who was chairman at Tuesday's meeting, will allow his name to go before the convention, he announced.

In accepting the nomination, Mr. Lee said he hoped to mark a new departure in the conduct of an election campaign.

Deprecating the discussion of public questions in a party speech before meetings composed of members of one's own party, Mr. Lee said he was going to invite all other candidates in the East Edmonton election to hold a series of joint meetings with him at which major public issues could be discussed.

PROBLEMS

Among the subjects he listed as possible topics to be analyzed at these joint meetings were the wheat problem, unemployment, the railway problem, foreign policy, the banking system.

Mr. Lee said he was not issuing this statement as a challenge to other candidates but solely with the desire of having an informed public opinion developed by a frank exchange of views between the candidates of the various parties.

Guest speaker at the convention, which was attended by some 200 official delegates, was Chester A. Ronning, Camrose, former U.F.A. member of the legislature.

DEPLORES MONOPOLY

Mr. Ronning deplored the growing monopoly tendencies in the economy of Canada.

He said that while control of the wealth resources of the country was being centralized in the hands of a shrinking minority, the majority of the people were feeling more acute burdens of social justice all the time.

Average weekly income of Canadians, he said, was pitiable, when it is understood that the resources of this country are said to be able to ensure a yearly income of about $4,000 to citizens.

He called upon Canadians to launch a steady crusade for social justice and praised the work of J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, in this regard.

Candidate

CLIFFORD E. LEE

chosen C.C.F. candidate for the East Edmonton constituency in the next federal election Tuesday night, who invited all other candidates to hold joint meetings with him during the campaign to discuss public issues.

FOWL ENJOYS CONVOCATION BUT CAPTURED

was hard to see what was wrong. Then it became clear. An illiterate rooster, unused to the fashionable company he found himself in, was behaving like all boors in polite society and kicking up more noise than all the rest of the guests combined.

But the Engineers overdid it. A little while later the rooster put in a second appearance. The Medical students, their traditional rivals, grumblingly complained "that is making too much of a good thing."

REPLIES WITH "BOO"

In fact, when the Medical students came up for the degrees they were by heard work in one of the hardest courses at the University the Engineers would not even let them graduate in peace. They gave their class and faculty yell with a vigor that robbed the Meds of speech—until one doctor was slung in retaliation by a belated but vigorous "boo."

General consensus was that the only rival the Engineers had was among the agriculture faculty, a few of whose graduates sought to pretend they knew all about farming problems by rolling Baldwin McDougall Drive amid loud cheering in a farm truck and pretending they knew all about threshing and harvesting.

ROYAL VISITORS TO BE PRESENTED ADDRESSES HERE

Two beautifully illuminated addresses of loyalty and greetings will be presented to Their Majesties on June 2. The first carrying the loyal greetings of the province is signed by the premier who will hand it to the King after it is read at the legislative building. The other is from the city and will be handed to His Majesty without being read. The province's address was illuminated by Don Sandilands of the provincial department of lands and mines, while John Maitland, city architect, decorated the address from the city.

31ST BATTALION TO HOLD DINNER

The 31st Battalion Association of Edmonton branch dinner will be held in the Royal George hotel, Saturday, May 20, at 7:30 p.m. Following is the program:

KNIFE-ARMED MAN FOILED BY COOL PAIR

Veteran Disarmed After Attempts On Lives Of Three Persons

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CAMROSE, May 17. — Coolheaded action on the part of A. Y. Billstein, local lumberman, and Carl Carlson in disarming Eric Short, 45-year-old veteran, when the latter ran amok with an army knife here Tuesday evening, prevented any serious result from the occurrence.

Billstein intervened when he saw the crazed man chasing a young son of H. Peterson down the street. Short was brandishing a wicked-looking knife. When Billstein intervened Short turned upon him and chased him into the office of the Crown Lumber Company, of which Billstein is proprietor.

Entering one door of the office, Billstein raced out another and pulled it shut behind him at the same time calling to an employee, O. J. Birkness, to hold the other door to the office. Seeing he was trapped Short hurled the knife at the door Billstein was holding. It missed the glass portion of the door and sank more than half-an-inch into the wood.

Then Short pulled the knife free and came through the door, knife in hand. He threatened Carl Carlson, but Carlson had possession of a hammer and chased Short away. Meanwhile Billstein had called R.C.M.P. Const. Lionel Broadway and Town Police Chief Waterson.

However, before the police arrived Billstein and Carlsen tackled Short, and while Billstein pinned his arms behind him, Carlson disarmed him.

Short was arrested by police pending further investigations. He has no particular place of abode but has lived in the Camrose district for some time earning his living by doing odd jobs.

PREPARATIONS WELL ADVANCED AT BUILDINGS

Preparations are well advanced at the legislative buildings for the visit here on June 2 of Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth. Many workmen are engaged in putting finishing touches on redecorating, refurnishing and polishing, so that when the royal pair arrive at the buildings all will be in the best of shape for the event.

The legislative chamber itself, where presentations will be made to His Majesty is in the course of an overhauling which will be complete. The new green rug which is replacing the red one that had been in the chamber since completion of the buildings is being laid.

Scaffolding which was erected to enable workmen to carry out retouch upper parts of the chamber, has been removed and the chamber is bright and gleaming.

Portraits have all been taken down and cleaned and are ready for rehanging.

Outside work is progressing on the double arch at the entrance to the buildings at the corner of 109 street and 97 avenue. To be finished in an iron gray color, this will be one of the most impressive decorations being erected in honor of the Royal visit.

Surfacing of one of the lower roads around the buildings has been completed and more work on the road will be done.

COMMITTEE ON DEFENCE URGED BY MACKENZIE

Would Be Representative Of All Parties In Both Houses

OTTAWA, May 17—Definite announcement that a special defence committee representative of all parties in both houses of parliament would be set up next session was made in the House of Commons Tuesday by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of defence, as defence estimates were considered.

At the same time the minister indicated if members desired the committee might be organized informally now and hold a meeting Thursday to discuss defence matters with officers of the department.

The suggestion for the committee came several days ago from the Conservative leader, Hon. R. J. Manion, and at the time Mr. Mackenzie indicated he agreed with it. Dr. Manion's proposal was that the committee examine defence plans in detail, behind closed doors if necessary.

DECLINED INFORMATION

On several occasions yesterday Mr. Mackenzie declined to give information to the house on the ground of public interest. Details such as he felt bound to withhold from the house as a whole would probably be discussed in committee sessions behind closed doors.

One question the minister declined to answer was as to whether the government proposed to obtain anti-aircraft guns and field guns for Canada or in the United Kingdom. He said such guns were not being made in Canada, but plans for their manufacture were in existence.

TRUCKER HELD AFTER DEATH CALGARY GIRL

CALGARY, May 17—Walter E. Kliss, Calgary gasoline truck driver, was charged with manslaughter last night after a little girl was allegedly driven by Kliss, struck and killed Vida Srolovitz, five, in East Calgary.

Kliss later was released on his own recognizance. He is married and has a two-year-old son.

Police said the girl, daughter of Morris Srolovitz, second-hand store proprietor, apparently ran into the side of the truck and the rear wheel ran over her.

Vida, eye-witness stated, was playing ball with other children at the side of the street and was running after the ball at the time of the mishap.

The truck driver, unaware that he had struck the girl, drove away. He was arrested on his return trip a few minutes later.

Goering Snubbed By General Franco Over Spain Affairs

PARIS, May 17.—A Havas News Agency despatch from Berlin last night said that according to reliable sources there, Field Marshal Goering of Germany "was given a snub equivalent to a 'not interested'" when he attempted to arrange a meeting with General Francisco Franco to discuss Spain's participation in the Italo-German economic and military front.

Havas said the report added to concern felt in well-informed German circles by a series of reverses, particularly in the South American propaganda field. While the Reich press was reticent, the despatch said, those quarters informed of the series of Nazi depositions from Brazil, Argentina and Chile now feel the Reich is being isolated.
